Shah Back in Iran; Mossadegh Faces Trial for Treason

TEHRAN, Iran—The Shah of Iran returned to his homeland today.

The 33-year-old monarch, a fugitive from his throne only a few days ago, arrived at his flag-be-decked capital in his private plane from Baghdad.

He took off from the Iraqi capital after hinting that ousted Premier Mohammed Mossadegh may face a treason trial and the death penalty.

The short flight back to Tehran was in sharp contrast to the Shah's hurried flight from the city only last Sunday. Iraqi Crown Prince Abdul Ilah and high officials of the Baghdad government ceremoniously bade him farewell.

Here in Tehran, the green, white and red national flags blossomed throughout the city in greeting. Wooden triumphal arches bearing signs spelling out "Welcome to Our Shah" and "Long Live the Shah-in-Shah" (emperor of emperors) spanned roads leading from Tehran's airport to the heart of the city.

The Shah, dressed in an Iranian air marshal's uniform flown to Baghdad from Tehran last night, inspected a contingent of the royal bodyguard before his plane left the Iraqi capital.

Iraq's King Feisal was reported ill and unable to be present at the ambassador to Baghdad and his staff also were absent. They had ignored the Shah when he arrived as a fugitive a few days ago.

Fighters Fly Escort

A squadron of Iraqi fighter planes flew an honor escort for the twin-engined Beechcraft plane, piloted by the Shah's personal pilot, as far as the Iranian border.

Tehran appeared bright and shining as the Shah landed, with fresh coats of whitewash covering the accumulation of old political slogans on walls throughout the city.

Beneath the decorations, however, the steel hand of martial law still gripped the city. Troops and police of Premier Fazlollah Zahedi, backed by scores of heavy tanks, patrolled the streets for any hint of trouble from pro-Mossadegh forces.

Zahedi's government last night announced the arrest of three more Mossadegh henchmen as Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi told interviewers in Baghdad his first act on returning home would be to see that justice is done to all traitors.

Honor Guest at Dinner

The Iranian monarch arrived at the Iraqi capital yesterday by air from Rome and stayed overnight as an official guest of Iraq's King Feisal. He was the guest of honor at dinner given by Feisal last night at his official residence.

Asserting that under the Iranian constitution the highest crime is armed resistance to the government, the Shah declared, "The crimes of Mossadegh are the most serious a person can be responsible for."

He said he was not certain whether Mossadegh, as a civilian, would be condemned to death but he added a soldier convicted of such activities would be shot.

"Mossadegh is an evil man who wanted only one thing out of life; power at all costs," the Shah said.

Ax of Economy May Descend On Postoffices

'Inefficient' Fourth Class Mailing Places Face Order To Close

WASHINGTON (AP) — Economy-minded Republicans are scrutinizing a familiar spot in rural America—the tiny, crossroads post office.

Under the direction of Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield, department agents are surveying certain "inefficient" fourth class offices in Ohio and the rest of the nation.

The objective: To close as many as possible, if the cost of operating them is far greater than the money taken in. Then people in the areas would receive rural free delivery instead.

Some of Ohio's 394 fourth class offices will be closed, a department spokesman told a reporter. Just how many, he could not say. It is understood, however, that less than one fourth will be abandoned.

"We're not going to close any post office solely on the basis of whether it is losing money," said the department spokesman.

"There are other factors involved. A lot of people have certain sentiments about their post office. We're going to try to convince them that rural free delivery would be to their advantage."

Apparently some people still need convincing. Some Ohio congressmen already have received complaints from their constituents, even though none has been closed as yet.

In the nation, about 250 have been shut down.

U.S. Standards Bureau Chief Gets Back Post

Dr. Astin, Fired in Row Over Battery Additive, Reinstated by Weeks

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Weeks has reinstated Dr. Allen V. Astin, the scientist he fired last spring as director of the National Bureau of Standards, the government's central laboratory.

Acknowledging that he had changed his views, Weeks said he has now made Astin "a member of my team" in the "best interests of the bureau and the public." He also said his action had unanimous approval from a committee of scientists he had asked to find a successor to Astin.

Announcement last March that Astin would be dismissed as the upshot of a controversy over bureau tests of a battery additive roused a wave of protests from scientific associations. Scientists at the bureau threatened to resign in large numbers.

Asks Him To Stay

Weeks yielded to the extent of asking Astin to stay on temporarily while his successor was found. His announcement late yesterday that he had asked Astin to resume his $15,000 job permanently represented a complete reversal of the firing order.

At the same time, Weeks announced a program of "broad improvements" at the bureau to:

1. Better balance its research and testing programs.
2. Eliminate "imperfections" in testing commercial products.
3. Eliminate "inadequacies" of bureau organization and administration.

He said the changes he outlined were suggested by the as yet unpublished report of a second committee of scientists, appointed to evaluate the bureau's programs. In many cases, Weeks said, the conditions criticized existed before Astin took over as head of the bureau in June, 1952 and he could not be held responsible for them.

Astin Pleased

Astin said he was "pleased with the expressed attitude of the secretary toward strengthening the bureau and with the opportunity to work with him to that end."

Weeks said that in the future the bureau would operate under the direct supervision of James C. Worthy, assistant secretary of commerce for administration. This removed bureau affairs from the

Tribal Leaders Greet Morocco's New Ruler

94 American Prisoners in Latest Group

Recently Captured Men Returned; Recovering From Battle Wounds

PANMUNJOM (AP)—Hobbling and stretcher-borne American and Canadian soldiers, some still suffering from recent battle wounds, were liberated here today as the Reds made the first deliveries from three more North Korean stockades.

Many of the 94 American and 43 other non-Korean repatriates of the 18th daily exchange were white-faced, bandaged and too ill to rejoice, in grim contrast to the rollicking British Commonwealth and U. S. returnees of previous days.

An American Marine, Cpl. Steven E. Drummong, said some of the Americans came from Camp No. 9, near Kanggye. He said it held only men captured in the last five months of the war. This indicated they apparently still were recovering from battle wounds.

Two Other Camps

The rest of the 437 Allied repatriates came from two other camps, No. 6 near Pyoktong and No. 10 at Manpo.

The Reds delivered 300 South Koreans in apparent good health, 23 British, 13 Canadians, 3 Australians, 2 Frenchmen, 1 Turk and 1 Colombian in addition to the 94 Americans.

The Communists said they would repatriate 150 Americans and 250 South Koreans Sunday. This would equal the largest group of Americans returned on a single day, and put the number of Americans returned over the halfway mark.

A report that captured Japanese-American soldiers from Hawaii and at least one U. S. officer were tortured by the Reds in an effort to obtain military information about the big Pearl Harbor naval base was told by one repatriate, Cpl. Robert P. Montgomery of Indianapolis.

Dean Still in Camp

Two other Americans said Maj. Gen. William F. Dean, highest-ranking Red-held captive, is in a prison camp deep in North Korea with other officers and will be among the last returned. The Reds so far have repatriated a mere handful of American officers.

The repatriates apparently had no accurate information on Dean's present whereabouts.

Allied officers said 24 of the first 50 Allied repatriates Friday were stretcher cases. Often there was no answer to names of returning

Capital City Sullen After French Coup

U.N. Arab-Asian Bloc Protests Ouster of Old Sultan as 'Unlawful'

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — White-robed tribal chiefs and Moslem religious leaders gathered in this sullen North African capital city today to greet Morocco's new French-backed ruler, Moulay Mohammed Ben Arafa.

The 64-year-old candidate for the hill country Berbers was proclaimed Sultan yesterday after the French dethroned his cousin, former Sultan Sidi Mohammed Ben Youssef, and sent him into exile on Corsica.

French officials would not say whether the new Sultan would parade through the streets to the imperial palace after his special train gets in from Marrakech.

Rioting Feared

It still was feared the bold decision to switch rulers might bring rioting among followers of the rival chiefs.

Strong French army and police forces held Rabat under tight military control. A curfew clamped on the city following Thursday's ouster of Ben Youssef has been lifted, however.

The Arab population remained quiet but glum, as if in mourning, although it was the period of the big religious feast Aid el Kebir and ordinarily would have been a time of rejoicing.

The loudest outcry so far against the forced exiling of the nationalist-minded Sultan, Morocco's spiritual leader and nominal ruler for 25 years, came from the Arab-Asian bloc in the United Nations. The 16-nation group decided yesterday in New York to ask for an urgent session of the U. N. Security Council to act against France's "unlawful" action.

Warns of Walkout

The bloc said the Sultan's ouster could lead to international strife and thus should come under U. N. jurisdiction. France has maintained her administration of the French protectorate is a domestic affair. She has warned she will walk out of the U. N. if it meddles in the affair.

Another protest—a call for a Moslem "crusade against France"—came yesterday from Islam's highest religious institution, the ancient university of Al Azhar in Cairo.

The signing of documents approving Ben Arafa as the new sultan took place in a palace at Fez, ancient Moroccan capital and still regarded as the religious center of the country. As a council of 350 Moslem leaders gathered for the signing, French army tanks and fierce pro-French Berber tribesmen surrounded the palace.

French officials denied there was any significance in the show of force, but observers pointed out this same council of Islamic muftis had threatened to kick out Moslem leaders who tried last week to dethrone Ben Youssef.

The French stopped that attempt led by Pasha Thami el Glaoui of Marrakech. Then the French did the dethroning themselves.

Richwood Man Electrocuted While Working

GALION—Boyd E. Turner, 36, of Richwood, was electrocuted at 3:30 p.m. Friday, while he was on a pole working on an electric line, six miles southeast of Blooming Grove. He was employed by the Gordon Construction Co. of Wooster.

Fellow workers said they believed Turner still had a pulse when he fell. The Volk ambulance of Galion was summoned and took him to Galion City Hospital where an attending physician pronounced him dead.

The body was prepared for burial at the Volk Funeral Home, and will be shipped today to the Schaeffer Funeral Home at Petersburg, W. Va., for services, Monday. Burial will be at Laymesville Cemetery.

A native of Arthur, W. Va., Turner was born July 30, 1917, the son of Elmer and Katie Daldwin Turner who live in Arthur. He was married Aug. 28, 1945, to Nora Burnell Simmons who survives with a small daughter, Beverly Ann, and son, Gary, both at home; three brothers, John Turner of Mechanicsburg, Earl Turner of Tyron, Pa., and Paul Turner of Moorefield, W. Va. One sister preceded him in death.

Mr. Turner and his family lived at Richwood.

Lodge Explains Korea Stand

Attitude of U.S. Based On 'Desire for Success'

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—U. S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., says the whole U. S. attitude on the Korean peace conference is based on a desire to make it successful so that a half million American young men can return home quickly from Korea.

This was the reason he gave newsmen yesterday for the adamant stand the United States has taken in the U. N. Assembly's 60-nation Political Committee against giving India or any other non-belligerent—except Russia — a seat. He agrees to the Russians only if the Communist side wants them to attend.

Lodge commented after the committee was forced to cancel its afternoon meeting and today's session for lack of speakers. India is standing firm with no sign of withdrawing and the United States delegation is doing all possible to gain support against a British Commonwealth move to seat India in the conference.

Lodge appeared confident he had enough votes to defeat India, but other delegates said it would be close. One source counted 32 votes for India and others said 17 could be counted to vote against. A two-thirds vote of those present and voting is required.

The American delegate apparently gave his comment because reports were spreading that Korean President Syngman Rhee had served notice he would not sit in a conference with India.

Ambassador Emilio Nunez-Portuondo, Cuba, lined up with the United States against India and publicly said in a committee speech that it is well known Rhee would not take part in the conference if India has a seat on his side. Nationalist China is the only other country so far to support the United States publicly.

Lodge would not comment on the reports or the Cuban's speech.

Expense Statement Filed

Over Two Million Spent By Lobbyists in Capital

WASHINGTON (AP) — Registered lobbyists spent more than two million dollars in connection with their "legislative interests" during the first six months of this year.

That amount was reported by more than 400 individuals and organizations who registered with the clerk of the House and filed expense statements under the lobby law.

The $2,377,000 they reported having spent on their "legislative interests" up to July 1 is slightly less than the $2,702,000 reported spent by approximately 500 lobbyists during the first six months of 1952.

Not All Spending Listed

The law contemplates listing expenditures for such things as public relations, office expense, wages and salaries, gifts, overhead, travel, food, lodging and entertainment. However it is generally understood on Capitol Hill that not all lobbyists are registered and not all expenditures reported.

Also, many expense reports are not itemized although the law says they should be.

"There is nothing we can do about this," the clerk handling the reports said in response to an inquiry. "There is no enforcement provision in the law. All we do is receive and file the reports."

The heaviest spender among the reporting registered lobbyists so far this year was the National Association of Electric Companies, which listed total outlays of $268,937 for the six months. During the same period of 1952, the association reported spending $232,877.

Railroads Next in Line

The Association of American Railroads was runner-up in total expenditures for both years. It reported having spent $119,338 during the first six months of 1953 and $129,843 during the first half of 1952.

The American Medical Assn. reported expenditures of $88,765 for 1953 and $134,560 for 1952. Also, the National Education Campaign, American Medical Association, reported spending $34,766 in 1952, nothing in 1953.

The American Legion said it spent $44,523 this year and $67,063 last year.

Other Spenders

Other large spenders and the amounts they reported having spent during the first six months of the two years included:

American Farm Bureau Federation, $48,558 for 1953 and $43,100 for 1952.

American Federation of Labor, $62,270, and $51,800.

American Dental Association, $16,303. No report was published for 1952.

American Hospital Assn., $22,182 and $21,277.

Chamber of Commerce of the United States, $67,257 and $69,018.

Atlantic Union Committee, Inc., New York, nothing for 1953 and $63,532 for 1952.

Congress of Industrial Organizations, $18,340 and $20,680.

Colorado River Assn., Los Angeles, $41,996 and $50,470.

Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Assn., $41,929. Nothing for 1952.

National St. Lawrence Project Conference, $25,328 and $34,615.

National Economic Council, Inc., $51,865 and $64,072.

National Federation of Post Office Clerks, $34,557 and $43,239.

National Milk Producers Federation, $90,402 and $86,018.

Southern States Industrial Council, Nashville, $51,871 and $41,008.

Marion Church Sets $30,000 Building Plans

Maranatha Group Opens Fund Drive For Addition, Repairs

A building project of the Maranatha Bible Church congregation, authorized to the amount of $30,000 will be launched next week. Planned as an addition to the church is a structure of two stories and basement, to be erected at the back of the church lot, and complete repairs of the church including a job of sandblasting on the brick exterior.

The plans were adopted at a congregational meeting held Sunday when resolutions authorizing trustees to carry out the work were passed. Approval was given for a new unit of modern design, fireproof, with specifications of approximately 38 by 54 feet as inside measurements, to be used for department and class rooms and space for young people's services and extension of Bible Conference Institute work and expanded program of church ministry.

Improvements on the church building will include a new roof, repair of the stained glass windows, outside paint, and fluorescent lighting, redecoration, and carpeting of aisles inside.

Additional room has been necessitated by growth of the Bible School to more than 100 average attendance in the last year and a half, the pastor, Rev. Earl L. Holliday, stated. Membership is nearly 100, and Bible School enrollment, 165. Services will be held in the church's Gospel Tent at Garfield Park, as long as weather will permit, during the period of the building activities.

Founded six years ago, Aug. 2, 1947, by Rev. Holliday and 10 charter members, the congregation met first in homes, then at the YMCA until Nov. 1, that year, when a plan of sharing the present church building with the owners at that time, First Church of the Nazarene, was worked out. Services were held by the newly-formed church on Sunday afternoons and Tuesday and Thursday evenings. Title to the property was acquired Jan. 4, 1948, with full time services launched.

Among many additional activities sponsored by the pastor and congregation is the Sunday Bible Fellowship radio program. This was started in 1949 over Station WMRN, Marion, then after two years was continued over Station WHKC, Columbus. The broadcast is heard each Sunday at 9:30 a.m., directed by Rev. Holliday, with local musicians taking part.

Bible Conference Institute classes were initiated in the fall of 1949, and a number of the courses of study have been completed. This school runs from October through May.

Maranatha Bible Camp was begun in 1950 at Camp Owens near Marion, with a week of camping activities for children of the community, including Bible study with a staff of local and visiting teachers and counselors. The fourth annual camp period was concluded Aug. 8 with 134 campers and a staff of 34 registered.

During August the last three years, an intensive evangelistic program is carried on in the form of tent meetings at Garfield Park, and other open air and shop services in the city during the period and tract distribution and visitation throughout the community. The meetings, in progress at present, will continue through Labor Day. Many special speakers and meetings are featured throughout the year at the church.

Bible Class at the Marion Training School, in charge of Rev. Holliday on Monday nights, is being conducted for the second year. Services at the Marion County jail are conducted every other Sunday afternoon, and services twice a year at the London Prison Farm and once a year at Ohio Penitentiary are carried on by the Maranatha Church.

The church, established as an independent institution, has no association with any official denominational group, but shares fellowship with other independent churches, pastors, missionaries and religious institutions. For its class material, the Bible School uses "Through the Bible Study."

Responsibility for the program of providing adequate room for the growing church is in the hands of the trustees, a group composed of Richard Skillman, Gloyd Dearth, Vern Griffith, Lawrence Fogle, and Russell Thompson. The building work will be done by the Baldauf Construction Co. of Marion.

Auto No Help, So Officer Chases on Foot

YORK, Neb. (UP) — Highway patrolman Gerald Lynch could not bring his patrol car alongside a driver who was weaving all over the highway. Lynch stopped his car, ran after the driver and jumped on his running board.

He startled the driver with two actions. First he reached in and turned off the ignition—then he arrested him.

Confident Living

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

I had a speaking engagement in a western city and was sitting backstage in the municipal auditorium in the midst of a litter of scenery, with head down, eyes closed. I was concentrating on my talk soon to be delivered.

Suddenly, there was a tap on my shoulder and a man's voice said, "I must speak to you."

"Not now," I said. "Im' terribly sorry, but I've got to make a speech immediately."

He persisted and finally I told him that I would be glad to talk to him after my speech if he would only wait until I got through. He pointed out where he was sitting with his wife, and later, as I spoke, I looked at their seats. He wasn't there, but I did notice him walking up and down off stage, obviously very distressed.

DR. PEALE

When I finished speaking and greeting the people who came up afterwards, I looked for him, but he wasn't there. However, as I left, an attendant handed me a card which he said a man who couldn't wait had left me. On it was the name of a person holding a rather important political position in that city. When I got back to my hotel, I telephoned him.

"Why didn't you wait?" I asked.

"You were busy, it was late, and I had to take my wife home. She's out taking the baby-sitter home now."

"I wanted you to pray with me," he answered. "I thought if you would pray with me, I could get some peace. But it's too late for me to see you now."

THEN AN IDEA occurred to me. "If you really want to pray, how about praying now, over the telephone?"

He seemed surprised at the rather novel idea suggested, but I persuaded him that, after all, we didn't have to be together physically, because that telephone line was enough to join us mentally and spiritually, and that the Lord was at both ends of the line, as well as in between. Then I shut my eyes and prayed for this man over the telephone. When I finished, I asked, "Will you pray?"

There was sobbing at the other end of the line. "I can't talk," he said.

"Go on and cry for a minute or two, and then pray," I told him. "Tell the Lord everything that is bothering you. This is a private line and, even if anyone is listening in, we're just a couple of voices no one knows."

THEN HE STARTED, hesitantly at first, then with impetuosity. He poured out a great deal of unhappy stuff over the telephone: hate, frustration, failure—a mass of it. Finally, he ran down. "Dear God," he concluded, "I have a lot of nerve to ask you to do anything for me, because I never did anything for you. But I guess you know what a no-account I am, even though I put on a big front. I am so sick of this all, dear God. Please help me."

Then I prayed again and asked the Lord to answer that man's sincere prayer. "Lord," I said, "right now, at the other end of this telephone line, put your hand on this man and give him peace." Then I stopped and there was a long silence.

Finally, the man spoke with obvious relief, "I will never forget this as long as I live. For the first time in months I feel peaceful and happy and clean inside."

You don't even need a telephone to take your trouble to God. He is everywhere, waiting to hear and help you. Remember His promise: "Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." Those who have tried Him know that He will.

Quick Acting Paratrooper Saves Fellow

FT. CAMPBELL, Ky. (AP)—A New York paratrooper grabbed a "wad of silk" yesterday and saved the life of a fellow soldier just after both men bailed out of an airplane.

Military authorities here credited quick-thinking Sgt. Richard N. Cleaver of Niagara Falls with saving the life of Pfc. Harold D. Lovell, Oklahoma City, Okla. Both are members of the 11th Airborne Division and were participating in a mass practice jump when the mid-air tangle occurred.

"Something fell through my suspension lines just after I got my opening shock after the jump. There was a wad of silk in my face, so I grabbed it and held on," said Sgt. Cleaver.

The silk was part of Lovell's collapsed parachute. Both paratroopers dropped several hundred feet to the ground on Cleaver's chute. They landed without injury.

Lovell said he was about to pull his reserve chute when Cleaver grabbed the canopy and held on until both men landed.

Wheat, Other Grains Decline

CHICAGP, Aug. 22 (AP)—Wheat went down on the Board of Trade this week even though farmers did approve marketing quotas on the 1954 crop last weekend.

This undoubtedly was a surprise to some people. Particularly, it surprised those who had rushed to buy at the opening Monday. They paid a much higher price for wheat than they would have paid if they had waited until the end of the week.

Wheat was not alone in its slump. Rye practically collapsed. Oats, that grain which usually enjoys a rather placid career without much price change, dropped sharply. Soybeans and new crop corn also fell. But September corn firmed and lard soared to new seasonal peaks.

Compared with a week earlier, wheat ended 4¾-8¾ lower, corn 3¾ lower to 1⅜ higher, oats 3⅞-4½ lower, rye 14 to 16 cents lower, soybeans ¼-3½ lower and lard 32 cents to $2.53 a hundred pounds higher.

Orient Express Still Train of Mystery

By RICHARD O'REGAN

BUCHAREST (AP)—The Arlberg-Orient Express, Europe's train of international mystery and intrigue, today has become more sinister than ever.

It is still a carrier of conspiracy between East and West, but gone are the voluptuous Mata Haris of the past and the monocled German agents of the Erich von Stroheim type. Gone, too, are the gay crowd of Balkan princes, wealthy Western businessmen and junketing dowagers.

The Iron Curtain has changed all that. International agents and spies use other means than the famous train to travel in and out of east Europe.

The train's new sinister nature has another character. As it crosses the Iron Curtain four times a week on its 1,600-mile run from capitalist Paris to Communist Bucharest, it takes on all the cold bleakness and concealed terror of a Red police state.

On its eastward trip, it disgorges in Vienna the last exhausted tourists and travelers who haven't a care about the East. It sheds its dining car and most of its carriages and waits until late at night before it undertakes to penetrate the dark uncertainties of the Communist world.

In the waiting time, a mere handful of passengers creep aboard, some ruefully, some guiltily, some mysteriously. The train frequently leaves with no more than two or three travelers. More often than not, they are Western or Eastern diplomats, couriers and messengers.

Austrian conductors say that once in a while a Western businessman bound on a questionable deal with the East gets on. Then there are Western Communists, sneaking in and out of East Europe with Hungarian visas stamped on pieces of paper, instead of in their passports, so their governments will not know.

Occasionally, there are Peter Lorre types whom the conductors guess to be Eastern Communists returning from making secret contacts in the West. But they are not many.

It is really at the Austro-Hungarian frontier that the Express takes on its new fulsome nature. The Austrian trainmen, conductors and the porter of the solitary wagonlit car get off and trusted Communist railwaymen take over.

Hungarian border guards, tommy guns ready, post themselves at each car. Customs officials begin their search. They unscrew the lightbulbs, look behind mirrors, under seats and in every closet. Nobody knows what they are looking for. Baggage—except for diplomats, Communists and favored guests—is examined minutely. Passport officials take away your documents and the train waits four hours before you get them back.

If you are a doubtful Westerner — like American correspondents — a secret policeman gets on board and watches you constantly. Another apparently telephones to Budapest because when you arrive in the Hungarian capital, there's a plainclothesman on hand to stop you leaving the station.

Meanwhile, additional cars are added and a dining car that goes only a few miles and then leaves you 24 hours without food unless you thoughtfully brought along sandwiches.

SAVED BY BELLE. Under these circumstances, near - drowning could be quite pleasant. The lucky young man, is Robert La Torra. He was knocked into Lake Michigan, off Chicago, by a sailboat's swinging boom. His guest on the cruise was Myrna Hansen, 18, who as "Miss United States" was second in the "Miss Universe" contest. Here she attends his injured head after rescuing him.

Accused Wife Beater Shows Judge Technique

RAVENNA, Ohio (AP)—Accused of wife beating, a 24-year-old man knocked his wife to the floor while she was testifying against him in a justice of the peace court.

"She had it coming," Howard Lee said, leaping from his chair and striking Mrs. Rosalee, 22, with his fist.

She had told Justice of the Peace Ambrose J. Bocanelli at the hearing Thursday night that Lee had beaten her with the cord of an electric iron.

Justice Bocanelli gave him a $200 fine and a six-month jail sentence.

Wainwright Seriously Ill in Hospital in Texas

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—The aging hero of Bataan, Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright, was still in a serious condition here today.

He was admitted to Brooke Army Hospital July 6 after reportedly suffering a stroke. His health has not been of the best, friends say, in several years.

The general spent four years in a Japanese prison camp during World War II after he surrendered his Army forces at the fall of Bataan.

It Won't Be That Simple

It is being agreed without argument that if the United Nations Assembly voted to accept Communist China as a member the United States should walk out.

Had Red China been a member of the U.N. when its army, in the guise of volunteer forces, opposed the U.N. in Korea, it would have been subject to expulsion.

The Soviet Union, itself, having supplied war material and personnel to oppose the U.N. in Korea, would be subject to expulsion if the organization were sufficiently mature to withstand such an explosion.

But there is one catch to the proposition that the United States has no choice but to walk out of the U.N. if Red China walks in.

That is exactly what the Soviet Union would like to have the United States do. The diplomatic danger implicit in the situation is the possibility the Soviet Union may out-maneuver the Unted States to further its own scheme for splitting the anti-Communist nations over the issue of admitting Red China to the U.N.

No government can be voted into membership without a recommendation by the Security Council, composed at present of the five permanent members — the United States, the Soviet Union, Nationalist China, the United Kingdom and France — plus Chile, Greece, Pakistan, Columbia, Denmark and Lebanon.

The United States will have a better chance to handle the Kremlin strategy of forcing a showdown if all its citizens understand what the Soviet delegation to the U.N. is trying to do.

Red China must not be allowed to shoot its way into the U.N. Neither must Red Russia be allowed to squeeze the United States out of the U.N.

Appeasement

This year's collegiate football season is being warmed up with headlines about violations of the amateur code.

In other years, the violations were disregarded tactfully until the football season was over, then discussed calmly by prudent officials who had no intention of killing any geese which habitually laid golden eggs.

The discussion is still in the hands of prudent officials, though it is taking place before instead of after football season. There will be no harm to the geese that fill stadiums and keep old grads happy.

The suspicion is irregular and irrelevant, but some of the same people who gag at appeasement when it occurs elsewhere may be strongly in favor of it when it serves their own purposes. Collegiate football isn't going to be racked up by anything drastic in 1953. There will be, so to speak, a truce. If everything goes all right, the powers that be may find it possible to give some of the worst offenders a clean bill of health a little later.

The National Collegiate Athletic Association will take its cue from the United Nations, or will it be the other way around?

Darling We're All Growing Old

If being reminded of the Dionne quintuplets' birth away back there in 1934 by the announcement that Marie will enter a convent this fall hasn't done the trick, here are some more reminders.

That also was the year Bruno Hauptmann was indicted for the kidnaping and murder of the Lindbergh child. John Dillinger was shot to death in Chicago. Authorities were chasing Samuel Insull through the Near East. Dr. William A. Wirt said Franklin D. Roosevelt, the "Kerensky" of the U. S. revolution, soon would be replaced by a "Stalin."

A half-witted German lad was guillotined for burning down the Reichstag. A half-witted German politician named Hitler stepped into Paul Von Hinderburg's empty shoes. NRA (the Blue Eagle) was reorganized. The Queen Mary was launched. Mahatma Ganhdi retired from politics.

It isn't that you've grown older since the Dionne quintuplets were born. Somebody went away and left the clock running, that's all.

Oh the Times! Oh the Customs!

All of us have our problems. Some of us have special problems — out of the ordinary run. Take the parents of children who have spent the summer away from home, in children's camps.

New York parents were being advised by an expert on this matter in The New York Times one day recently. Be patient with the children when they return, she said. Give them love and attention. Don't nag. Remember that the little ones require understanding to make them feel at home.

For millions of parents whose little ones did not spend the summer in camps but at home in their parents' hair, advice like that sounds fatuous — to be patient, to love the kiddies and give them attention.

But on the other hand, it never has occurred to The New York Times that parents whose children don't spend the summer at camps might need any advice on the handling and feeding of their own little-known offspring.

Middle-of-Road Block

By David Lawrence

Federal Power Policy Seen Opening Up Detours

Perhaps the best example thus far of what the Eisenhower administration means by a "middle of the road" approach to national policy has just been given in the official statement issued by the Department of Interior on the subject of public ownership of electric power.

Sen. Kefauver and the Americans for Democratic Action, a radical group that supported the Democratic presidential ticket in 1952, now declare the Eisenhower policy to be "unsatisfactory."

A careful examination of the text of the document will reveal many reasons why advocates of private enterprise will also find the same statement "unsatisfactory."

Indeed, the statement reaffirms more of the "New Deal" than the "Old Deal" in the electric-power controversy.

Basically the New Deal, which built the TVA and made grandiose plans for electric-power development by the federal government in other areas, looked toward a policy eventually of government ownership of power throughout the United States.

The idea was that by governmental development of large projects first, the private utilities in due time would have to sell their properties and the whole industry would be nationalized.

When the Eisenhower administration came into office, opponents of nationalization or public ownership believed that what was once described by the President himself as "creeping socialism" would be arrested.

The new statement of policy affords no such explicit assurance. It merely states that the federal government "does not assume that it has the exclusive right or responsibility for the construction of dams or the generation, transmission and sale of electric energy in any area, basin, or region."

As a statement of an abstract principle, this will be approved generally. Even the New Dealers admitted that they wanted the federal government to do it all right away.

The Eisenhower administration, however, doesn't close the door at all to large hydroelectric projects — in fact, opens the door wide to them as follows:

"The Department of the Interior will, therefore, actively plan and recommend construction of generating facilities in hydro projects under its jurisdiction when such facilities are economically justified and feasible. The department will particularly emphasize those multi-purpose projects with hydroelectric developments which, because of size or complexity, are beyond the means of local, public or private enterprise."

This affords plenty of latitude for the entry of the government into the electric-power business whenever it wishes to do so on a large scale. Certainly, when it comes to economics, no private company can compete with a government project which is largely free from taxation.

The public-ownership advocates constantly emphasize that the government can furnish cheap power or that it can provide many more rural electrification projects than private enterprise.

The fact is that the federal government can do anything cheaper than a private business if it wishes to load the taxpayers of seven-eighths of the country with a tax bill for projects that are of direct benefit to one-eighth of the people.

The Americans for Democratic Action by implication do approve a large part of the Interior Department's statement. The ADA says the administration is "distorting facts when it says that cooperation with cities, states and other local interests is a 'new policy'."

Likewise the ADA pronouncement argues that the federal government in the last 20 years had stepped in only to undertake the big, complex projects.

The amount of agreement between the ADA and the Interior Department appears to be considerable, and it is the private-power interests who may become apprehensive that the administration, while professing an intention to stay out of the electric-power business, may under pressure go in the other direction.

That's one of the handicaps of a "middle of the road" policy — it sometimes is the forerunner of an ultimate movement toward the other side of the road when the political pressures intensify.

Cotton Corners

By TRUMAN TWILL

Dear Nephew: Little did I know when I wrote to you about reunions last week how things would turn out.

The day after I sent the letter the Wileys stopped by to visit with us and ended up by asking us why we didn't go with them on Sunday to the annual reunion of Mrs. Wiley's family. Since we had nothing planned and the Wileys kept insisting, we went along.

I cannot count on attaching myself to this family for reunion purposes in the future. But If I had the privilege of adopting a family, I could do worse than adopt this one.

They are the descendents of Levi Lynn, who fled to this country from Germany in the 1840's, to escape military conscription. I had the privilege of looking at the registration list which the reunion's permanent secretary keeps and noted that nearly all the descendants who have made careers for themselves, except the housewives, were teachers, lawyers, doctors — and farmers.

That made a deep impression on me, that there should be this juxtaposition of farmers and professional people in the same family. We talked about it on the way home and Amanda Wiley gave me her version of the reason.

Ever since she was a child, she related, she had known first-hand and had heard second-hand about the ambitions of her country-bred relations to produce professional men. Being of German ancestry for the most part, the acquisition of the "doktor" title represented the ultimate goal of respectability.

It was a badge of merit, not just a way to make a living.

Consequently, a whole family would go without little luxuries and even pinch on borderline necessities to send a likely son through college and medical school or to give a smart girl enough education to become a teacher.

What made this noteworthy, she pointed out, was that relatively few of these farmer members of her tribe had shown any special aptitude for farming. It was something they did to keep going, as if they considered themselves the root stock on which the professional hybrids could be grafted.

There were about three dozen at the reunion, most of them ordinary dirt farmers. But there were two old doctors and one young one, two lawyers and, according to the list I saw, about six other lawyers and doctors. It was hard to tell about the teachers, because most of them were women and many had married. But the fellow on my left at the table when we ate was superintendent of a school system and Mrs. Wiley, herself, had been a teacher at one time. I met an architect, a water-color painter and a research chemist—all former farmer boys.

We had a fine time. Best pressed chicken I've had since William McKinley's day. Who knows what reunion I may attend next year?

Relay our regards as usual to the rest of the family.

Strikes Drive Europe Nearer Unity

By Gault MacGowan

PARIS

France's lightning communications strike may have put off ratification of the EDC treaty for a long while — or forever — but, paradoxically, it appears to have brought a United States of Europe nearer.

Georges Bidault, popular and repeatedly the national foreign minister, made this plain when he shook hands with Germany's chancellor, Konrad Adenauer, in conference at Baden-Baden on a deal to rush forward the necessary machinery.

Bidault is the hot tip for the next president of the French republic—the election by senators and deputies for a replacement of Vincent Auriol takes place late in the fall — and what he says and does now is vested with national importance.

His attitude of cooperation with the German chancellor was dictated by the critical economic difficulties in which France now finds herself and which must be faced, this time, with serious intent on reform.

Behind him, in Paris and France, was the unsolved problem of the strike. Behind Chancellor Adenauer was the strike against the Communists of his East German compatriots and the September elections, which he must win to continue in office another term.

Both men saw that national events were pushing Europe into unity as the only salvation for economic problems that are beyond the scope of any one nation to settle for themselves.

Neither in France nor in Germany do people really want the European army. Adenauer goes along with it as a means to strengthening his country, but it is no secret that he regards political federation as a priority.

Baden-Baden was a well-chosen spot for the meeting of the foreign ministers. Baden-Baden was the headquarters of the French military occupation of Germany, but, since the days of the high commissioners, it has become a fashionable resort again.

The Casino, which was, for long, a French officers' club, is a gambling joint again, but there were plenty of spare rooms for the foreign ministers and their staffs. So they met there.

European union is a gamble. The more people say it is dead, the more it seems to get up and live. Much of the spade work has been done by delegates to the Strasbourg Council and Assembly of Europe, but it is at government levels that cut-and-dried programs have fallen down.

The significance of the Baden-Baden meeting is that representatives of France, Germany, Italy and the Benelux countries solemnly agreed to get it started — leaving themselves only the escape hatch of not fixing a date.

The German delegation wanted to fix a date for the holding of elections to a European parliament, but this was going a little too fast for Bidault. The other nations look to both of them to agree, as federation cannot come unless they do.

French taxpayers may play a big part in deciding that date and they will be for it if federation will mean a lightening of their burden. The cost of federation has been studied, but not publicized.

The taxpayers' union is on record for a complete reform of the national economy, rationalization of all national activities and for increase of production to cheapen supply and bring it within reach of all. The federalists claim that union will settle all these demands.

With Germany, represented by Adenauer, people have the feeling that Western union at least promises to be well-organized. Britain, by standing out, has left the leadership of the new Europe to Bonn.

Emphasis Shifts to Asia

By O. H. Bradon

There are two dynamos in the Washington powerhouse, Adm. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Sen. Knowland, who has succeeded the Sen. Taft in the key role of Republican floor-leader in the Senate.

The two share one important bias, their preoccupation with the Far East. Adm. Radford, a naval aviator and expert in carrier warfare, forged his opinions in the heat of battle in the Pacific: Sen. Knowland looks out at the world from the Pacific Coast.

When Sen. Taft nettled President Eisenhower into replacing the Europe-minded Gen. Bradley with someone who could take a "new look," as he put it, at American global strategy, he wanted, above all, to remove the man who had frustrated all attempts at broadening the Korean War with his famous verdict that this would mean fighting the wrong war at the wrong time in the wrong place and against the wrong enemy.

Taft also wanted to shift the emphasis of military policy, in the tradition of the Republican party, to Asia.

Adm. Radford was the man to carry out such a reorientation. Among the first things he expounds to the inquiring visitor are his reasons for believing that Communist China today is a more immediate danger to American security than Russia.

The Kremlin, he argues, has been stopped for the time being in its aggressive intentions. In Peiping, however, the flames of ambition are still burning fiercely after a successful revolution.

The experiences of the Korean War, and China's sudden rise to the status of a big military power, will fan those flames still more.

The admiral may or may not agree that the Truman-Acheson policy was correct, that first things had to come first and that with him admit that he has one of the keenest minds among the American military. He has a disarming smile and an infectious charm, behind which lurks an impulsive, stubborn and persuasive personality.

the containment of Russia, therefore, had to have priority.

Today NATO is a going concern, and greater concentration on the containment of Communist China was inevitable, from the American viewpoint, even if there had been no change of administration.

It is not easily understood why Americans feel so insecure and exposed on their Pacific flank. But the Pearl Harbor attack is as ominous in implication to them as is Dunkirk to Britain or Sedan to France.

They also remember that in the Pacific they fought virtually alone and that later in Korea they had to carry "nineteen-Twentieths" of the burden.

Lately President Eisenhower has been preoccupied with the danger that France may do what Britain did in regard to Greece in 1947: tell the United States that she could no longer bear the burden and must abandon Indo-China.

All this has conditioned men such as Adm. Radford to adopting a mare nostrum attitude in the Pacific. They do not see the makings of a NATO there.

The ANZUS pact, it is true, exists and some believe that it could be the nucleus of a wider coalition, but the American military leaders regarded this compensation for Australia's and New Zealand's agreement to the Japanese Peace Treaty more as a political sop than as a military asset.

They desire to base their containment policy on countries closer to China: Japan, Formosa, the Philippines, South Korea and Vietnam. However, President Eisenhower, almost more firmly than anybody else, believes that in this shrunken world alliances have become indivisible.

There are many who dispute Adm. Radford's ideas, but even those who most violently disagree

The site of St. Mary Parochial School, upon which the old church formerly stood, was donated to the congregation on Sept. 22, 1853 by Timothy Fahey, who had purchased it from Eber Baker. Work was begun on the church in 1861 and it was dedicated in 1862. It was considered a handsome structure. Work on the present church on N. Main St. was begun in October 1891 and dedication ceremonies were held Oct. 14, 1895.

Brazil's Indians

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—How many Indians are there in Brazil? One million? Five hundred thousand? Two hundred thousand? The nation's Service for the Protection of Indians (SPI) admits frankly that it doesn't know exactly. The above are guesses made by some of its experts. Such a variance, naturally, makes the planning of assistance programs a little difficult. So the Service is taking a census of Indians. The job, SPI director Gama Melcher says, is especially difficult because even some of the known tribes live in regions that are difficult of access. There also are tribes still unknown.

Corn Count

RENNER, Tex. (AP)—Plant breeders at the Texas Research Foundation here know exactly how much corn it takes to plant five acres—110,000 grains for 22,000 hills. They patiently counted out five grains per hill in a test project to observe performance of new varieties.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Idea for Speeding Peace

We once wrote a book, "Private Burkey's Private Peace," a high note of which was a fancied crashing of a peace session by exasperated servicemen who told off the diplomats and supplied a GI Blueprint for Peace.

With the U.N. convening again on the all-important peace problem we again like to picture a group of GI's crashing the gate, seizing the rostrum and giving the delegates their reactions to all the argument and snafu. Their views so expressed would make a story that would sweep the world and one unparalleled in its appeal to all peoples.

We get a kick out of fancying a wounded veteran addressing the General Assembly:

"Okay, so I'm out of order! I'm busting the procedural rules wide open. I'm clobbering the parliamentary routines. Neverthless a combat guy has a right to be heard here if anybody has.

"This is a meeting to end war and bring peace, ain't it. Who knows more about war? Who is leveling more for peace?

"Gentlemen, I'm no Daniel Webster but I can get closer to the point in a half hour than any of you have got in the last five years!

"If you boys had to do one night's patrol duty in Korea, retake a hill or hold a town overnight you could get the picture straighter, talk plainer and act faster. I bring you a helpful blueprint:

1—Shorter speeches and no abstentions.

2—Less patience when the Russkies start distorting the picture, muddying up the waters and villifying everybody else in the house.

3—A walkout on the Commies whenever they get abusive and go for the gutter tactics.

4—Longer hours. Nobody is really trying for peace who shows up for work at 10:30, takes two hours for lunch, gets back at 3 p.m. and adjourns at 5 o'clock on account of the hour is getting late and there's a dinner party at the Waldorf.

5—A permanent presiding officer who has had at least two years experience as a baseball umpire and three years as a fight referee.

"Listen, gentlemen. The fate of the world is in the balance and you are fiddling while the listening audience burns. This is no debating society. You birds are supposed to talk turkey, face facts, get results and rescue the world. There's slaughter going on. Hate is being spread. All the decent concepts are being clobbered.

"During every speech you make here some kid is dying somewhere! In every recess you take for lunch another bunch of amputees are leaving some hospital somewhere! During every postponed vote some fighting man gets the world he will never use his eyes again!

"How can you guys quibble over an agenda and not get a vision of blackened cities and long lines of maimed and hungry war orphans? How can you go to all those cocktail parties without wearing false whiskers when you know the shape the world is in?

"Gentlemen, when do you get fed up with the run-around, the double-talk, the peace despoilers, the lies, the hate campaigns, the crucifiers and the men who lack simple honesty and a fundamental respect for the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth?

"I close with this question: Is this a waltz, a rhumba, an oratorical roden or an all-out on-the-level crusade for world peace Okay, throw me out! I represent only the men who do the dying."

Old Bakery Site Will Become Home Of Bucyrus Actors

BUCYRUS—The old Krumbach bakery building in the southwest section of Bucyrus is being converted into a 200-seat theater and clubrooms by members of the Bucyrus Little Theater organization.

The 35-member organization has rented the building from Fred Krumbach, retired bakery owner, and a stage is being built. All work and materials are being donated, Mrs. Harley Mollencopf, club director, announced today.

The group plans to hold tryouts for its production in its new quarters on Sept. 2. The first play, a comedy, will be "Here We Come Gathering." Date for the first production is mid-October.

Officers of the organization are: president, James Lundy, assistant manager of the J. C. Penney store here; vice president, James Berry, a burial vault manufacturer; secretary, Miss Dorothy Stover, a newspaperwoman.

The group plans to launch a campaign in the near future to have the season's productions underwritten by individuals interested in the organization, Lundy announced.

OUT OF BOUNDS

McCarthy Brings Postage Rate Issue Into Quarrel With Paper

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) has brought the issue of newspaper postage rates into his quarrel with the Washington Post — and the Post has retorted that the senator has not shown "he is qualified to become chief censor of what news may be sent in the mail."

In a letter to seven newspaper editors, McCarthy last night repeated a charge that J. Russell Wiggins, managing editor of the newspaper, was responsible for publishing a deliberate falsehood about him.

He referred to an editorial in the Washington Post which said that James A. Wechsler, editor of the New York Post, when he was under questioning at a closed session of the Senate investigations subcommittee McCarthy heads, "was subjected to intensive interogation about editorials in his newspaper critical of Sen. McCarthy."

McCarthy has denied this and one of the editors to whom he wrote, James S. Pope of the Louisville Courier and Times, said last night he could not find in the transcript of the Wechsler hearing any questions about editorials critical of the senator, though there were questions about Wechsler's attitude toward the heads of other congressional investigative groups.

McCarthy said in his letter to the editors:

"This subject becomes of more than academic interest when it is remembered that the Postal Department requested 240 million dollars for the current year to make up the difference between what was paid by newspapers, magazines, etc., for postage and the actual cost of handling such publications by the Post Office.

"I am sure you will agree that the congress . . . and the taxpayers . . . would be strongly opposed to having this money used to disseminate falsehoods."

Philip L. Graham, publisher of the Washington Post, said in a statement last night:

"We do not agree with Sen. McCarthy that newspapers should be compliant to a senator's demands just because the Congress has voted mail rates that may provide a subsidy to newspapers. We have consistently stated in our editorials that newspapers should be charged the full cost of mail service. . . Sen. McCarthy has given no evidence that he is qualified to become chief censor of what news may be sent in the mail."

Bucyrus Residence Will Be Converted Into Nursing Home

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS—A rest home will be opened in the old Copeland residence here, once mentioned as a possible site for a city hall.

The home, which probably will be in operation next month, will be operated by Doyle N. Wertz, formerly of Centerburg. Wertz and his wife have leased the property from Dr. S. N. Simon, former physician here who now lives in Cleveland.

The large brick residence was purchased at public auction here July 11 for $13,100 by Elmer Lutz, Bucyrus attorney, acting as agent for Dr. Simon. The property had been offered to the city for hall purposes for $30,000 in July, 1952.

Mr. and Mrs. Wertz have operated a nursing home in Centerburg for seven years. They said the home here will be licensed for about 30 persons and a staff of about 10 persons will be employed when it is operating at capacity.

Man Fails To Pay Fine, Is Arrested

A Marion man is in city prison today after being arrested on a bench warrant as an aftermath to his arrest for drunken driving last December. He is Dwight S. Rose, 30, of 589 Patterson St.

He will remain in prison until he pays a fine of $200 and costs or serves a jail sentence. At his hearing on Jan. 6, Rose was found guilty and the fine was leveled against him.

He filed a motion for a new trial but did nothing further about the case, according to F. H. LeMasters, bailiff at Municipal Court.

Friday a bench warrant was issued and he was confined to jail. LeMasters indicated this morning if Rose did not pay the fine, he would be in jail for about 70 days.

The driving rights of Rose were revoked for three years. A representative of the State Bureau of Motor Vehicles picked up Rose's license Friday when he was arrested.

This was his second conviction for drunken driving.

Prisoners Look On Helplessly as Reds Execute American

FREEDOM VILLAGE, Korea (AP)—An 18-year-old American soldier was publicly executed by the Reds while fellow American prisoners watched helplessly, two Americans liberated by the Communists declared today.

"They told this kid to run," said Sgt. Doyle L. Reedy of Chelsea, Okla. "He got about 12 feet when they shot him in the back six times."

The execution took place at the mining camp, notorious POW collection point in North Korea, on June 5, 1951.

"Three GIs dug a hole for him," said Pfc. Kenneth H. Connacher of Altoona, Pa. "then the Chinese took him outside this schoolhouse where we all heard the charge read against him. His hands were tied behind him. Then the Chinks told him to run."

The young prisoner was accused of shooting a Chinese just behind the front immediately after his capture, the two soldiers said.

Woman Hurt In One Mishap

State Highway Patrol Reports No Accidents

A Marion woman was slightly injured in the only accident reported in the city Friday. She is Mrs. Ethel Everly of 778 Congress St. She received a head injury when her car and one driven by William M. Bailey, 18, of 497 Smith St. collided at 10:40 a.m. on S. Prospect St. in front of the Kroger Store.

Mrs. Everly was taken to the office of Dr. J. A. McGlew where she was treated and released.

She was going south on S. Prospect St. and Bailey was going north when the cars collided. Bailey told police he was going about 25 miles an hour. Mrs. Everly said she was traveling from two to five miles an hour at the time of the impact.

Bailey's car was damaged in the front end, while the right side of Mrs. Everly's automobile was smashed in. Both cars had to be towed away from the scene of the accident.

State highway patrolmen from the Marion station reported no accidents during the last 24-hour period.

Railroads Still Idle in France

Other Vital Services Remain Strikebound

PARIS (AP) — French railroads, post offices and other vital services remained strikebound today despite a government settlement with two big non-Communist unions. The wave of walkouts that have disrupted the nation's economic life for 17 days appeared far from over.

The day even brought one new tieup. Paris bread bakers walked out for three days.

The bakers belong to the Communist-led General Confederation of Labor, left out of the negotiations with the government that led to the announced settlement.

The CGT last night ordered members in the postal and telephone service to continue their strike and decided to prolong the walkout of bus and subway workers another 24 hours.

The two non-Communist unions—the Socialist Workers Force and the Christian (Catholic) Workers Federation — have ordered members employed in the postal, telephone and telegraph services to return to their jobs but they apparently were not being generally obeyed.

POW Thrown in 'Hole' For Defacing Picture

FREEDOM VILLAGE, Korea (AP) —The Communists don't like mustaches on pictures of their No. 1 Red boss.

Cpl. George C. Davison of Staten Island, N. Y., found that out the hard way—15 days in solitary.

Davison, a captive of the Reds since May 18, 1951, was repatriated by the Reds today.

"I was fooling around," he said. "I had a pencil and there was that picture of Mao Tze-Tung. I put on a mustache and they put me in the clink."

Gas Leaks Into Store, Firemen Receive Call

Firemen were called shortly after noon yesterday to investigate a natural gas leak at the Kroger Store on S. Prospect St.

The leak was discovered when an unidentified woman apparently lit a cigaret near a cold air duct and flame flashed forth and singed the hair on her arm.

Firemen used their gas detector then called the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. Company officials said today an old service line to a former residence building on the property apparently began leaking and allowed gas to seep through the ground into the cold air ducts. Service crews shut off the abandoned service line and after a check-up this morning reported all traces of gas had disappeared.

Stock Market Declines As Readjustment Begins

NEW YORK, Aug. 22 (AP)—The stock market slipped into a steep fall this week.

The break was not extensive but it was the worst since the declines that sent the market to the lowest point of the year early in June.

Virtually all sections of the market participated in the decline. Exceptions were the utilities and what are known in Wall Street as defensive issues.

What Wall Street is on the defensive about is a readjustment of business expected late this year and next year. What form this readjustment will take depends upon individual evaluation of economic factors.

An old fashioned "bust" isn't anticipated. One of the favorite expressions in Wall Street is "rolling correction." By that is meant that one industry or segment of the economy will readjust after another so that the economic correction will be a gradual affair.

In the process, of course, some companies are going to earn less than others. Which companies? The answer to that is what makes the current stock market so selective.

This week's interruption has led several Wall Street analysts to believe that the traditional summer rally is in the process of topping out. Now there is a hopeful look forward to Labor Day when summer vacations end, the kids get back to school, and business in general begins the windup for the big winter pitch.

Among the more optimistic in Wall Street, the fall in the market this week was regarded as a consolidated phase or a pause until the upswing is resumed. But there are those who take the gloomy view and hold the hope that the market doesn't collapse to a new low for the year.

There were plenty of excuses for selling this week. Among them were the upheaval in Iran, the crippling strikes in France, the Korean debates in the United Nations, and the freely voiced predictions of curtailed steel demand.

Prisoners

Americans and Canadians on the roll call.

After a pause, another freed prisoner would answer: "He's in the ambulance, sir."

Many of the first who arrived looked wan and haggard, with bandages around their heads and heavy casts on broken limbs. Censors at first refused to permit identification of them, but later allowed all to be named provided their condition was not mentioned.

Others Look Better

Later groups in the three-hour exchange looked in better condition and jumped from Red trucks unassisted.

The U. N. Command delivered 2,400 North Koreans to the Reds, resuming shipments interrupted last week when a typhoon delayed repatriation ships off South Korea.

Friday's exchange brought to 1,599 the number of Americans and to 7,420 the total number of Allied captives the Reds have sent through Freedom Gate, according to Allied figures. Communist China's Peiping radio claimed Friday 10 more Americans had be returned while the Reds got back 54 fewer Koreans but one more Chinese than the U. N. reported delivering.

The Reds have said they held 12,763 Allied captives, including 3,313 Americans.

Previous Communist deliveries all had come from Camps 5, 3 and 1 near the Yalu River.

Some Tell of Good Care

Some of the captives returned by the Reds Saturday who had been taken prisoner recently told of good medical care at Communist front-line aid stations in recent months.

One repatriate was taken to a six-story communist hospital dug into a mountain.

However, the men who had spent months and years in Communist captivity told the familiar stories of Red harshness and brutality.

Marine Pfc. Leonard Steege, Medford, Ore., was captured just eight days before the end of the shooting in Korea. He said he was well treated.

However, Army Pfc. Kenneth H. Connacher, Altoona, Pa., who was captured in March 1951, came back with rope scars on both arms and another scar on his face from a rifle butt wielded by a Chinese guard.

As punishment for an escape attempt he was bound in such a way that he was on his knees with another rope holding his neck up so he could not change his position.

He told of another American soldier being shot in the back publicly. The American was marched out in front of a schoolhouse and ordered to run. When he tried, the Chinese put six bullets in his back. The American had been charged with killing a Chinese at the front after his capture.

Fire Hits Marion Home, Damage Set at $1,500

A short-circuit in the electric wiring caused a fire with estimated damage of $1,500 at the residence of Emmett Cardwell of 363 Owens St. last night.

The blaze broke out from defective wiring in an attic over a one-story kitchen at the rear of the two-story house, firemen said.

Neighbors discovered the fire when they saw smoke pouring from the house about 30 minutes after Mrs. Cardwell left to pay a visit to a son, firemen said.

Mark St. and Central station firemen answered the alarm at 7:56 p.m. and extinguished the blaze a few minutes later.

Major damage was to the roof, rafters, and floor joists in the attic, but heat from the fire also entered a second story bedroom through an opening into the attic and scorched paint on bedroom furniture.

Restaurant Man Killed in Crash

A Delaware restaurant manager was killed instantly this morning when his automobile hit a bridge four miles west of Delaware. Eddie Walker, 40, L-K Restaurant manager in Delaware was the victim, accompanied by his wife and another couple returning from Marion early this morning.

The Walker car was headed toward Delaware from Marysville on Route 36 at 12:55 a.m. when it hit a small one lane bridge crossing the Scioto River about four miles west of Delaware. Hitting the north side of the bridge, the left side of the car was torn completely off. Walker was thrown to the pavement. He died instantly of a crushed chest and head injuries.

His wife, Dorothy, suffered a lacerated left arm. Also riding in the car were Mr. and Mrs. John Lumbard of Delaware. John Lumbard suffered a broken left leg while Mrs. Lumbard received cuts about the face. Mrs. Lumbard is an employe at the Delaware L-K Restaurant.

State Highway Patrolmen investigated the accident. Mr. Walker was taken to the Doty Funeral Home in Delaware.

The Walkers have one daughter, 13. Mr. Walker has been with L-K about three years coming to Delaware from Sunbury.

Police Report Two Arrests in Traffic

Two traffic arrests were reported today by Marion police. A third man, whose arrest had been reported Friday was fined $25 and costs in Municipal Court. He was Donald R. Huffman, 18, of 134 St. Clair St. He had been charged with driving with an open muffler.

Friday afternoon, Jack L. Thomas, 27, of Delaware was arrested and charged with operating his car with an open muffler. He was cited to appear in Municipal Court today.

At 12:30 this morning, Lester T. Bendler, 40, of near Marysville was arrested and charged with driving with insufficient brakes. He was being held in city prison until his appearance in court today.

Action on Atom Developments Seen Unlikely

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia's atomic-hydrogen blast apparently is not expected to lead to any moves requiring congressional action in the near future.

Rep. W. Sterling Cole (RNY), chairman of the Senate House Atomic Enercy Committee, said after an hour-long conference yesterday with intelligence officials that his group will go ahead with plans to visit uranium mines in Africa.

"The American people can be assured," Cole added, "that the United States, and thus the free world, is and will continue to be in a pre-eminent position" in both atomic and hydrogen bomb developments.

The committee had made plans to travel to the Belgian Congo and the Union of South Africa Aug. 23 to Sept. 29 before the announcement Thursday of the Soviet explosion. Afterwards, Cole asked President Eisenhower and several agency heads whether the legislators should stay on hand "for consultation or legislative action."

Lt. Gen. C. P. Cabell, acting chief of the Central Intelligence Agency, and his aides met with the committee yesterday. Cole said he and the three other members who attended were "fully informed" about the Russian test blast and decided not to cancel the trip.

In a separate development, Civil Defense Administrator Val Peterson said Americans must now "prepare a better and bigger civil defense — much sooner than many realized would be necessary."

"The Russia H-bomb should mark the end of the atomic ostrichism by wishful thinkers and the nonthinkers" in this country, he said in a statement.

Morrow County Fair Program Ends Tonight

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD—Morrow County's 103rd annual fair boasted one of the longest entry lists in the Junior Fair division in its history.

The many entries necessitated two days for judging in the handicraft and livestock classes. The fair opened Wednesday this week with a tractor pulling contest at 9 a.m. Prizes for the contest totaled $280.

Harness racing with $5,200 in purses, got under way Thursday and was scheduled to end today.

Special features in the cattle program included the Ohio State Hereford Show and the Wyandot District Guernsey Show. The Morrow County Junior Shepherds Club put on one of the largest sheep shows in the history of the fair.

School and Grange exhibits gave the Ohio Sesquicentennial observance the torchlight center of attraction to portray the various stages of Ohio history. The county Tuberculosis and Health Association sponsored a free chest X-ray unit at the fair.

Night attractions at the fair included wrestling on Thursday night; Jimmie Lynch's Death Dodgers on Friday night; Kline's Continental Circus is scheduled for tonight's grandstand attraction, closing the fair program.

from Southern Ohio, reports receiving a petition signed by more than 1,700 complainants. The office of Rep. Clarence Brown, a Republican, also has received some protests from constituents.

In deciding to close some fourth class post offices, The Post Office Department said it discovered that it could save $30,000 by substituting rural free delivery in areas served by 20 offices.

Rep. Polk, however, insists that the overall economy won't be much, if any, and adds that "the post office remains the center of civic, social and political life" in thinly populated areas.

Centerburg Man Hurt In Crash of Light Plane

LEWISTON, Pa. (AP)—An Ohioan, passenger in a small private plane which crashed into the Juniata River yesterday, is in critical condition in a Lewiston hospital today. Gordon Canaday, 38, of Centerburg (Knox County), Ohio, suffered fractures of the left arm, right leg, chest injuries and cuts when the lowflying craft apparently stuck a power line and nosed into a mud bank. The pilot, Walter M. Hawkins, 40, of Coatesville, Pa., also was seriously hurt.

MAN, WIFE ARRESTED

A Marion man and his wife will appear in Municipal Court Monday to answer charges of disorderly conduct. They were arrested at 4:44 this morning in the rear of 767 Creston Ave. by police after they engaged in a family quarrel. The two are Robert L. Murphy and his wife, Elizabeth of 251 Senate St. They posted bond and were released.

Boy Busy Despite Illness

KEEPING BUSY ON CONSTRUCTION of many models of machinery, a bedfast Marion boy, Ralph Schofield, is shown above with various types of the toys he has made since he was stricken with a severe heart ailment almost six months ago.

A busy boy, though he is not able to leave his bed, is Ralph Schofield, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schofield of 477 Fies Ave., who observed his fourteenth birthday recently.

Stricken with rheumatic fever, a heart disease, March 1, he has kept himself busy whittling small models of machinery from wood. This work he must do, of course, while lying in bed. He has made a complete farm outfit, including tractor, plow, disc, harrow, corn planter, manure spreader, and other items, and a special project was a power shovel which is operated with strings, and straight pins used for hooks. He has cut out lettering for these machines and has painted them.

Relatives describe him as a very patient lad for one who was quite active prior to his illness. He was an eighth grader at Edison Junior High School, and says he will finish his school work, even though he is in bed. In an effort to do everything possible for his recovery, his physician is giving him penicillin, a million units at a time. One of five children, he has two brothers older, and two younger.

Rev. R. W. Faulkner To Leave Pulpit at Calvary EUB Church

Rev. R. W. Faulkner, pastor of Calvary EUB Church here the last 10 years, leaving Marion for the pastorate of the EUB Church at Van Wert, will be succeeded in the Calvary pulpit by Rev. Clyde R. Wendell from Bellevue. The latter is a former Marion resident who has been in the ministry more than 20 years. A sister, Mrs. Esther Freeman, is a resident of Davids St. The parents, the late Ellis B. and Zetta Wendell, and a brother, the late Samuel Wendell, were all Marion residents.

Active in community affairs, both civic and religious, Rev. Faulkner, a member of the Marion County Ministerial Association, has held offices and committee chairmanships in that organization, he was a co-chairman of the community's Religion in American Life movement at one time, and has been active in the Marion County Council of Churches. Among various civic duties, he has served on the board of the Marion County Chapter of Red Cross and on the Salvation Army advisory board.

Coming to Marion in 1943 from Butler, O., he received his elder's orders in the Evangelical Church that year at ordination services of the annual conference at which he was appointed Calvary Church pastor. When he and his family moved here, the parsonage was at 231 E. Church St. next door to the church. The pastor's home now is at 195 S. Vine St.

Former pastorates served by Rev. Wendell were at Stoutsville, Westgate EUB Church in Columbus, Salem Church in Toledo, and the Seybert Memorial Church at Bellevue. When a young man in Marion he was employed at a steel plant until leaving for Asbury College at Wilmore, Ky., to prepare for the ministry. In 1929, he was married here to Miss Opal Doris Vermillion whose death occurred on Wednesday, last week. Two sons are Phillip Wendell, 16, and Danny who is 10.

Dr. Astin

supervision of Craig Shaeffer, assistant secretary of commerce for domestic affairs. It was Shaeffer who made the investigation of bureau affairs which led to Astin's dismissal.

Weeks' reinstatement of Astin came the day after the Post Office lifted a fraud order against Jess Ritchie of Oakland, Calif., maker of battery additive AD-X2. This was the center of the dispute between Weeks and Astin.

Test Not 'Objective'

The fraud order issued last February was based on bureau findings, after a series of tests, that AD-X2 did not rejuvenate batteries as its maker claimed. The order was suspended a few days after it was applied, on the request of Weeks, who told the Senate Small Business Committee he did not think the bureau's tests of the additive were "sufficiently objective."

Thus, Weeks put Astin back in his job despite Astin's reiterated views that Ritchie's product is no good, and did so the day after the Post Office lifted its fraud order, an action indicating the government does not accept as final Astin's views on AD-X2.

Weeks said the committee recommended that the secretary of commerce take over responsibility for "nontechnical policy and procedural matters" leaving only the testing to the bureau. This would apparently take out of the bureau's hands decisions as to what products to test, and how to handle reports. Bureau officials said recently only about 1 per cent of their work is commercial testing.

DIES IN TRACTOR MISHAP

MARIETTA, Ohio (AP) — John Dunn, 66, of nearby New Matamoras was run over by a tractor and killed yesterday while he was loading hay. The accident resulted when the brakes released on a tractor attached to the hay wagon.

CENSUS MADE SENSE

Gorham, Me. (UP) — Selectmen of this town and officials of the U. S. Census Bureau conferred hurriedly when the selectmen counted 500 fewer noses than census-takers did in 1950. They discovered there had not been a large exodus. The selectmen did not count students at Gorham State Teachers' College as residents but the Census Bureau had.

Ohio's A-Plant Wins Plaudits

Congressmen Praise Handling of Work

WASHINGTON (AP)—The handling of the Atomic Energy Commission's construction project near Portsmouth, Ohio, is second to none, a House Ways and Means subcommittee said yesterday.

"Of the many construction projects which this subcommittee has had the opportunity to examine, we have found none which is superior to the job being done at Portsmouth," the subcommittee said. The plant is north of Portsmouth in Pike County.

Headed by Rep. George Bender (R-Ohio) the group investigated complaints that low bidders on certain jobs were not getting the work.

The report added:

"Case files both in Portsmouth and in Washington were studied and in almost every case the low responsive bidder was awarded the contract.

"There were cases found where misunderstandings had arisen between various unsuccessful bidders and the commission which could have been avoided had more care been taken.

"However, these cases are very small in proportion to the thousands of contracts efficiently handled and are very difficult to eliminate entirely from an undertaking of this size."

New Premier Of Italy Wins First Vote Test

ROME (AP)—Italy's new pro-Western premier, Guiseppe Pella, today won his first parliamentary test, a Senate vote of confidence.

The vote was 140 to 86. Ten of the 237 senators abstained. One was absent.

Pella, 51, successor to veteran statesman Alcide de Gasperi, now must face a similar vote in Chamber of Deputies. It probably will come early next week.

Pella is expected to get over that hurdle also and bring at least temporary stability to Italy's floundering government. He has admitted, however, that his government probably will not last long.

It was the Chamber that overthrew De Gasperi's eighth consecutive government July 28 and left Italy rudderless until Pella was sworn in as Premier by President Luigi Einaudi Monday.

Bank Acquires Property Sold at Sheriff's Sale

Purchase of a property at 536 Toledo Ave. was made by the National City Bank for $2,300 at a sheriff's sale this morning at 10 o'clock in front of the courthouse.

Sale of the property was ordered by Common Pleas Court following an action in which the bank was plaintiff and Winfrey E. Stepp was defendant. Appraised value of the property, which was improved with a one-story frame bungalow, was $2,500, and the sale could not be made for less than two-thirds of that amount.

Clyde Wilson was auctioneer.

These Days

By George Sokolsky

SOKOLSKY

It is often said that peoples who speak the same language have an affinity for each other. The Germany of the kaiser so thoroughly believed in this theory, that wherever the Germans went, they promoted the use of the German language. The French have also sought to develop French as the second language and for many centuries succeeded. English made its own way with little pressure from any government.

The United States and Great Britain not only speak the same language but have the same basic laws and traditions. It should be a simple matter for these two peoples to convey ideas and purposes to each other without the impediment of linguistics.

NEVERTHELESS, the truth is that they do not even grasp each other's concepts and while we, in the United States, have cultivated assiduously a sentimentality toward Great Britain, often exceeding our own self-love, the British continue to believe that we are mad children, rich in material things but altogether unworthy of being taken seriously. Too young, you know!

The London "Daily Herald" of July 21, under the heading, "No, No, Mr. Knowland," has the following to say:

"Thank you, Sen. Knowland, for telling a Herald reporter so frankly your views on the international situation.

"They frighten us.

"Your opposition to admitting China to the United Nations soon after a Korean peace is madly unrealistic."

The phrase, "madly unrealistic," must be a reminder to us that we are in many respects an idealistic people.

WE REALLY turn the other cheek in our international relations, otherwise there could have been no Marshall Plan, no rebuilding of the countries of our enemies, no participation in two major foreign wars into which the American people (as distinct from their government) entered to save Great Britain.

There could have been no outpouring of billions of dollars of national wealth to Europe and Asia as a gift from the American taxpayer.

If the American people were not "madly unrealistic," the United Nations would have been situated in Paris or London or Geneva, and the bulk of its expense would not have been borne by the American taxpayer; nor would we have gone into the Korean War, nor would we have averted victory to please our allies.

This America is an idealistic nation and the people have avoided and even evaded realism because they actually believe that goodness will prevail.

THEIR ROOTS are in the prophets of the Old Testament. Maybe that is a wrong view, but the Americans are unchangeable in their rejection of Satan.

This is paradoxical in a people who seem so practical; yet it is a correct description of us, for otherwise when taxes are so high, we should not have tithed ourselves to the bursting point in maintaining our enormous charitable, religious and cultural institutions without government aid.

Maybe the realistic British, the logical French, the thrifty Japanese and the hard-headed Germans cannot understand us, but a glance at the 250 odd religious sects in our country is a living proof of the endless search among our people for the laws of God.

In this idealism, America manages somehow to be practical and even to prosper.

NO GREATER service can one do to an understanding of America by, Great Britain, the country of our language, than to try to explain this country not in terms of automobiles and refrigerators but in terms of the essential idealism of its people.

If the British and the French and all the other nations could know and believe that the United States is actually "madly unrealistic," as the "Daily Herald" says, and that the American people instinctively put right above expediency, that even when our politicians try to be expedient, they fail because it is unnatural with them, they would better understand our country to their greater advantage.

And yet on the subject of Communist China, the American people are not "madly unrealistic."

They recognize the immorality of aggression and they do not condone it. They have been called upon to contribute not only wealth but to expend their sons because of a senseless aggression.

They fear that a puffed-up, flattered Communist China will "volunteer" in Indochina, in Burma, in Malaya.

They do not wish to be called upon again to bail out their allies with American treasure and American lives. They are very realistic about that.

STEVENSON RETURNS. Adlai E. Stevenson arrives in New York with his son, John Pell, after a six-month tour covering many of the world's trouble spots. The 1952 Democratic presidential candidate told reporters that the United States is winning the cold war and the danger of a hot war has diminished. He warned, however, "This is no time to . . . lower our guard."

Mystery Cloak Still Surrounds Grunewald, Even When He's Ill

JERSEY CITY, N. J. (AP)—Henry (The Dutchman) Grunewald, once Washington's "mystery man," lay in a hospital here today, still cloaked in a faint aura of mystery but presumably recuperating from a heart attack he says he suffered in a gas-filled apartment.

The 63-year-old political figure and a woman friend were hauled out of the apartment and revived yesterday morning by a rescue squad.

Early today Jersey City Medical Center authorities said they had been ordered to give out no information about Grunewald or Mrs. Ann Anderson, 46, who was found in the apartment with him. They were reported in good spirits yesterday afternoon by Dr. William Doody, chief psychiatrist at the center.

After being rescued, Grunewald and Mrs. Anderson were booked on charges of being disorderly persons because they couldn't give a satisfactory account of why they were in the apartment. They are expected to be arraigned Monday, police said today.

Police Capt. J. Leo O'Connor said this is the way Grunewald explained what had happened:

He, Mrs. Anderson and Richard J. Tarrant, a Jersey City lawyer and once director of the Newark branch of the Office of Price Stabilization, were driving to New York from Newark when Grunewald became ill.

Tarrant suggested that they stop at the apartment of a relative of his. That was how they happened to be at the apartment, which neither of them rented.

After a rest Grunewalk felt better and he and Mrs. Anderson dined out with a friend, and returned to the apartment. There Grunewald suffered a heart attack.

While tending to him, Mrs. Anderson forgot about a pot of coffee heating up on the stove. It boiled over and put out the flames. The two jets poured gas into the room and both passed out.

The building superintendent called the police and the emergency squad came, revived them and took them to the hospital.

Grunewald became famous through his reluctance to testify before the congressional "influence peddling" probes, where his name kept popping up frequently. He was fined $1,000 and given a suspended 90-day jail sentence for contempt of Congress.

BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR JOE

A birthday party was given 81-year-old Joe Slanser by some golf friends recently at the Marion Country Club. He is the oldest active member. Slanser is the only men ever to shoot two 2's in a row on the country club course according to Jack Stoddard, club pro. This means that he shot a two on hole five which has a par 4 and followed with a two on hole six which has a par 3.

Protestant and Catholic Services Planned at Fair

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Dr. Norman Vincent Peale of New York and Msgr. Anthony Schlernitzauer of Columbus will speak at separate Protestant and Catholic Services Aug. 30 at the Ohio State Fair, it was announced today.

Dr. Peale, a native of Greene County, Ohio, is now pastor of Marble Collegiate Church in New York. He writes a weekly newspaper column and has a radio program. After graduation from Ohio Wesleyan University, he became a reporter of the Findlay Morning Republican before entering the ministry.

Msgr. Schlernitzauer is pastor of St. Peter's Church, Columbus.

Catholic services will be held at 8:30 and 10:30 a.m. in the Music Hall building. Protestant services will be at 10 a. m. in the Coliseum.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

A "mysterious cell" operating inside the White House is "plotting" to sell President Eisenhower a labor policy which would have been too radical for Franklin Roosevelt or even Harry Truman, according to one angered member of Ike's cabinet.

RIESEL

This cabinet member, who spoke freely to a small group of Republicans in Washington just the other day, has been using exactly these words. Only pressure from inside the party has prevented him from exploding in public.

Whether or not the cabinet member is right in charging that the President is being deliberately deceived by some of his own confidential advisers, the truth is that Mr. Eisenhower was handed, and did sign, a memo to Congress which he could not possibly have read in full for among other weird things it could perpetuate racket control of certain unions.

IN MAKING concessions to labor that Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Truman would never have made, this memo could actually put hundreds of millions of dollars worth of union welfare funds into the hands of the mobs.

It could silence any courageous rank and file member who might be willing to endanger his livelihood, his family and his life, to fight either mob or machine control of hundreds of little dictatorial labor baronies throughout the nation.

It is full of cut corners and subtle overtones which could give a certain type of tough labor chief total power over his membership.

Many believe that only a veteran unionist could have written or suggested this memo — and that it was done without conferring with the top AFL leadership which just never would have dreamed of asking a Republican, conservative president for such vast power.

THIS MEMO would have gone to Congress just before it recessed, if Sen. Taft had not died and thrown both Houses into mourning, preventing further business.

However, informed Washington circles are convinced that the forces in the White House which participated in preparing the memo for Mr. Eisenhower intend to urge him to send it along when Congress reconvenes next January.

This, despite the fact that any analysis of the memo, which Ike actually signed, will reveal the following:

It is possible, for example, for any one of a score of racket - controlled local construction union officials (such as those recently indicted for extortion in St. Louis) to drive up to a new building project of veterans hospital and say: "From now on we're your union".

THE MEMO handed to President Eisenhower simply wipes out with one sentence the need to hold elections on such projects to determine which union the working men want to join, if any.

Then, under this policy statement, the union chiefs mentioned above could simply expel any member who openly attacks corruption in these locals.

This expulsion is made possible under Section 5 of the document Eisenhower was urged to send to Congress. Section 5 states:

"I (President Eisenhower) . . . recommend that in addition to nonpayment of dues, a union may expel a member and require an employer to discharge him for (A) Disclosure by the member of confidential information of the union . . ."

SHOULD PART A become law, it would be virtually impossible for anyone to change that funds are being misused or to make public any exhorbitant salaries, expenses or payroll padding by local union officials or their relatives. Or even to demand a public accounting of union funds, if you study this part closely.

If you examine a vague part of Section 14, you'll find that the filing of union financial statements could easily be eliminated.

In other words, whoever prepared the statement for the President, in effect, drops a curtain around hundreds of millions of dollars worth of union funds.

In another section, No. 19, the memo opens wide a short cut to complete union control of additional hundreds of millions of dollars now piling up in welfare funds. The memo says that President Eisenhower recommends that where small employers are involved they can "voluntarily" waive participation in the administration of welfare funds.

Well, only the birds and bees, and the young ones at that, are unaware of the facts of union life in some welfare fund activity.

At least up to now the law has made it mandatory to have dual administration of most of these multi - million dollar funds. Dual administration, I say, not dual control. The employers at least could look at the books.

If this proposal actually becomes law, the first thing some of the strong arm boys would do would be to have the "little employer" take the "voluntary" action and exclude himself—or he'd be out of business in certain fields.

Obviously the general has been badly briefed on the labor front.

YOUR HOME . . . Today and Tomorrow

By DOUGLAS TUOMEY

Fully 60 per cent of the complaints about linoleum not wearing properly can be traced to the fact that the floor upon which it was laid had not been correctly prepared to receive it. Cracks, bulges and rapidly wearing linoleum have been blamed on the materials when the fault lay with the person who did the job.

Linoleum will not wear properly unless it is put down over a smooth and even surface. Even the installation of sheets of plywood over an old and badly worn floor is not sufficient if the sheets span deep depressions and allow the floor to bounce or sink under foot traffic. As with everything else connected with buildings or houses, there must be a solid foundation or footing to start with.

The homeowner who is about to install his own linoleum or tile can do a splendid job if he will simply follow the procedure of the professional mechanic who does this work for a living. When a professional looks over a floor which is to be covered, the first thing he does is sweep it clean and sink any nailheads protruding above the surface.

He next sands down any uneven board ends or joints between boards or strips. Next, he lays a straightedge across the floor and marks the areas which are lower than the general surface. The next step is to fill these depressions with a fast-setting compound and screed it off so that the low spots are brought up to the proper level.

When these relatively simple preparations are finished he has a floor which is in good shape to receive the linoleum and will guarantee the wear the owner should expect from new covering. The cement used to affix the linoleum to the floor has every chance of lasting when the floor is right, and no chance of doing the job when there is play in the floor. The compound is available in any floorcovering store.

Aid for the Ailing House

By ROGER WHITMAN

Water-stained Plaster

Q: Can you tell me what to use before painting the walls under the windows? The plaster is stained from rain or water coming through from the outside.

A: To prevent a recurrence of rain leakage, it will be necessary to fill all open spaces between the outside of the window frames and the exterior walls with a caulking compound. If the frame sections have shrunk, all open spaces and crevices should be filled with putty. After the leakage problem has been taken care of, the plaster can be painted in the usual manner and no special treatment is necessary.

Baby Oil Spot

Q: Accidentally I splashed some baby oil on a painted plaster wall. How can I remove it safely?

A: Make a paste of powdered whiting or chalk and liquid, non-inflammable spot remover. Apply this paste about one-quarter inch deep over the spot. When it has dried, brush it off with a soft brush. Repeat the process if necessary.

Removing Paint from Concrete

Q: My concrete porch is about 30 years old, and is located over a fruit cellar. Through the years many coats of paint have been applied and now it has all started to peel and looks terrible. How can I remove the paint?

A: Commercial paint remover should soften the paint sufficiently so that it can be scraped off with a wide-blade putty knife or some similar instrument. Another solution would be a proportion of three pounds of trisodium phosphate to the gallon of hot water. This will soften the paint for removal. When using either of these solutions, be careful not to let them get on any surfaces from which you do not want the paint removed. Rinsing with plenty of clear water should follow so that no trace of these solutions remains. The reason is that, should any vestige remain, it would act on any new paint applied over it.

Counterfeiters Headed For Central Ohio Area

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Police in Central Ohio were warned today to be on the lookout for three counterfeiters reported headed for this area after flooding Pittsburgh with worthless $10 bills Thursday night.

Secret Service officers told local police two men and an attractive blonde in a yellow convertible probably bearing Indiana license tags had passed a number of the bills, all on the Federal Reserve Bank at St. Louis.

PREVIEWS OF COMING ATTRACTIONS AT THE THEATERS

RANDOLPH SCOTT SHOWS HIS gun to George Macready in the 3-D production in technicolor, "The Stranger Wore a Gun." It currently is showing through Wednseday at the Ohio Theater.

Martin-Lewis Comedy Set at Palace Theater

"The Caddy," a Dean Martin-Jerry Lewis comedy, will be the main attraction of a double feature billed Sunday through Thursday at the Palace Theater. Completing the billing will be "A Perilous Journey" starring Vera Ralston, David Brian and Scott Brady.

Featured in the former with the comedians are Donna Reed, Barbara Bates, Joseph Calleia and Fred Clark.

The latter is a story of 49 European maidens who are imported for purposes of marrying the Sacramento gold miners. The action begins on the dangerous Atlantic crossing, pausing only briefly in tropical Panama where a near-riot is averted, and roaring into the colorful boom town of Sacramento at the height of the '49 gold rush.

Billed for Friday and Saturday is another double feature, "Dream Wife," starring Cary Grant, Deborah Kerr and Walter Pidgeon, with Betta St. John, and "Port Sinister" starring James Warren, Lynne Roberts and Paul Cavanaugh.

The story in "Dream Wife" unfolds the complications of an attractive, young New York businessman, played by Cary Grant, engaged to a State Department career girl who doesn't believe in letting romance interfere with business. In this role is Deborah Kerr.

Then he is smitten by the charms of an Eastern princess who has been trained to devote her life to pleasing the man she marries. When he decides that the latter will make the perfect "dream wife" and arranges for her to come from her country to America, the differences between East and West are strikingly apparent.

"Port Sinister" is the strange adventure tale of a scientific expedition's search for sunken pirate gold in the Caribbean.

In the former, conflict develops when Julie Mirbeau, played by Ona Munson, falls in love with John Reynolds, portrayed by John Wayne, without knowing that he is the man who has been brought south by a reform element to smash the lottery run by her father. The story in the latter centers around a conflict between shipping interests and two feuding stage line owners resulting from an effort by Rex to speed up mail service across the continent to the California gold fields.

South Drive-In Theater Bills 'Blazing Forest'

"The Blazing Forest," technicolor picture starring John Payne, Susan Morrow, Richard Arlen, William Demarest and Agnes Moorehead, plays Sunday and Monday at the South Drive-In Theater.

Set against the rugged pine forests of the northwest, the picture concerns John Payne, boss foreman of a logging camp whose relentless devotion to his work leads him into a series of emotional and dramatic events.

"Don't Bother To Knock," which stars Richard Widmark, Marilyn Monroe, Anne Bancroft and Donna Corcoran, plays Tuesday and Wednesday.

The story concerns Richard Widmark, a tough-minded city boy, who is invited to come and see Marilyn Monroe, baby-sitting for a couple in New York's mid-town Hotel McKinley. Miss Monroe, who was recently cured of a mental illness, tries to injure the girl she is sitting with and the action begins.

Thursday through Saturday, "California Conquest" plays. In technicolor, it stars Cornel Wilde and Teresa Wright.

The story concerns California's fight for freedom. Old California is ruled from Mexico by remote control and greedily eyed by four big powers and Wilde portrays a young Californian Don who is a leader in the movement to take the territory into the United States.

3-D Drama and Comedy Scheduled at New Ohio

An outdoor dama, "The Stranger Wore a Gun," in 3-D and in color by technicolor, is the current attraction at the Ohio Theater. Starring Randolph Scott, it will show through Wednesday.

On the billing also is Three Stooges comedy in 3-D, 'Pardon My Backfire."

In "The Stranger Wore a Gun," Randolph Scott is cast as an adventurer foot-loose after the Civil War. He is working the Mississippi with gambler Claire Trevor when his life is saved by George Macready in a premeditated barroom brawl. On the advice of Miss Trevor, he drifts West where he goes to work for Macready, who is planning to loot stagecoach freight lines of gold bullion shipments.

Scott's game to keep the freight line from being robbed, while at the same time remaining in the good graces of Macready and his renegades, is upset when a rival gang appears on the scene.

Starting Thursday will be the film musical version of "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," in technicolor. Jane Russell and Marilyn Monroe are starred, while Charles Coborn, Elliott Reid, Tommy Noonan and six-year-old George Winslow head the supporting cast.

Dominating the comedy are the two principal characters, Lorelei Lee, the beautiful blonde, and her friend, Dorothy. The action takes place on a Europe-bound boat and is concerned with the antics of a wise-cracking brunette and the other, a naive blonde gold-digger who "can stand on the stage with a spotlight in her eyes and still see what's inside a man's pockets."

North Drive-In Bills Movie 'Desert Legion'

Playing Sunday through Tuesday at the North Drive-In Theater will be "Desert Legion," in technicolor and starring Alan Ladd.

The story concerns the Foreign Legion and its fight against a band of renegade Arabians.

"Law and Order," a first run technicolor production, plays Wednesday through Saturday. It stars Ronald Reagan, Alex Nicol, Dorothy Malone and Preston Foster.

Reagan plays a U. S. marshal whose fiancee, Dorothy Malone, persuades him to hang up his guns for the sake of her peace of mind. The story is based on the efforts of peace officers of the early West to curb the depradations of powerful lawless elements in colorful towns of the frontier.

Hotel Corridors Neck-Deep in Politics

Campaign Recalled When Ike and Adlai Hit Town

By RELMAN MORIN
(For Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK (AP)—It was like old times in New York this week.

First, the President came to town for a day, and then Adlai Stevenson touched down, returning from his trip around the world. Before you could say "national committee," a fair copy of the spasms and convulsions that shake this republic every four years was taking shape all over town.

The hotel corridors were neck-deep in politics. The newsreelmen, hoarse voiced and croaking, pleaded with people to get out of their foreground. Patient New York gendarmes were trying to keep order, usually with a wisecrack, sometimes with an arm. The usual cranks and hangers-on invaded the news conferences. And there was that pleasantly familiar sensation of trying to take notes on a carefully worded statement with a photographer's elbow in your eye.

Yes, sir, it was exactly like last year when Eisenhower and Stevenson were warming up for the decision that came in November.

Neither seems to have suffered much from the effects of election day.

The President was bouncing around in his suite on the 32nd floor of the Waldorf with the easy, free-wheeling grace of a professional athlete. He was still wearing a pair of Army - issue officer's shoes, the buckle-over type they sell in the PX.

He looked a little thinner, much sharper, and very much more sure of himself. He sat, talking deeply with Col. Harold Riegelman, the GOP candidate for mayor of New York, apparently oblivious to the bedlam going on around him. The deep furrow that runs horizontally across the top of his nose, in moments of keep concern, never appeared once during the day. He whipped through a crowded schedule like a very old hand at crowded schedules.

In fact, it seemed to amuse him when Jim Hagerty, his press secretary, gave the newsreel men "just two seconds more" for their pictures.

"First Sergeant Hagerty," he said. "Hagerty'd make a great first Sergeant."

Adlai Stevenson looked a little tired, as well a man might after six months abroad. He said he would be glad to unpack now.

But he had the same bubbling, spontaneous wit—which may have been a political handicap last year—and he got the laughs, just as he always did.

When somebody asked him to comment on the situation in Iran, he said he understood that Mossadegh also had fled the country, pondered for a moment, and added:

"There might be a good opening there for a politician."

And when the radio men asked him to sit down, to be nearer the microphones on the desk, he said, "Certainly, a politician always likes to keep his seat."

He stuck a thin stiletto between the sixth and seventh ribs of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles when he answered one question. A reporter, recalling what Stevenson had written about the Middle East, asked if his view did not coincide with those expressed by Dulles.

"I don't know that I can answer that," Stevenson said. "I know what I think, but I'm not at all clear as to what Mr. Dulles thinks."

All of which suggests, to this reporter anyway, that the gentleman from Chicago may be more in the center of the Democratic picture than this cagey remarks sometimes indicate. He has said, you recall, that he doesn't know whether he will run for the presidency again in 1956.

Also, he declined to answer, directly, when he was asked whether he considers himself the leader of the Democratic Party.

But along with this, he said he intends to speak out on Sen. Joseph McCarthy and on foreign policy. And, in his own way, he will work for his party. If these are pieces of the jig-saw, they fit pretty neatly.

Well, anyway, it was nice to have the champion and the challenger in town again . . . just like old times.

PITTSBURGH REDS FOUND GUILTY. Four of five Pittsburgh district Communists leave federal court in the custody of a U. S. marshal after they were found guilty of conspiring to teach and advocate the overthrow of the government by force. Leaving the court are (from left, foreground) Irving Weissman, party chairman in West Virginia; U. S. Marshal John Sloan and Steve Nelson, former party chairman of western Pennsylvania. In the rear are William Albertson, party secretary and James Dolsen, a party writer. Missing from the picture is party treasurer Benjamin Carreathers.

Members of Grotto Treat Cincinnati To Colorful Parade

CINCINNATI (AP)—Fun-loving Cincinnatians were treated today to a colorful parade by the Ohio State Grotto Association, the Masonic social organization.

Some 2,000 Grotto members participated in the convention, which concludes tonight with installation of officers.

But besides the fun, the Grottos are devoted to serious business. Harry H. Baker, Cincinnati attorney, reported to a business session yesterday that American and Canadian Grottos had collected $16,000 for cerebral palsy work.

One cerebral palsy victim, 13 year - old Ernie Jones of Lima, Ohio, was a special guest at the convention.

Ernie, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Jones, has had a special teacher provided by the Lima Grotto. When discovered by the Grotto last February, he could not speak and could move around only by rolling on the floor.

Now he navigates by a wheel chair and "talks" by displaying cards with printed words.

CLASS HOLDS PICNIC

Members of the Loyal Women's Class of Central Christian Sunday School met for their annual picnic Thursday at the church. Covers were placed for 24 at the picnic dinner. A collection was taken for the children's stocking fund and $20 will be forwarded to the Christian Children's Home in Cleveland. Guests were Mrs. Amy Dripps of Mansfield, Mrs. Hazel Houser of Muncie, Ind., Mrs. Robert Self of Tulsa, Okla., Miss Kay Rambo of Cleveland and Mrs. Avis Clark.

Another Good Deed of Galion Trouble Clinic Is Recognized

Special to The Star

GALION—Only a few of the good deeds accomplished by the Galion Trouble Clinic have come to the attention of the public.

There is one, however, that is visible to all who pass where it appears. It is the little white card on each table in three public eating places here, and on the tray that goes to the room of each patient in Galion City Hospital.

The little white card, which is bringing comments of approval, has printed on it a suggested prayer of pre-meal thanks for each of three different faiths and reads as follows:

"'It is a good thing to give thanks unto the Lord.' Psalm 92,1.

"You are invited to use one of the following suggested prayers:

"Catholic: Bless us, O Lord, and these Thy gifts, which we are about to receive from Thy bounty. Through Christ our Lord. Amen.

"Jewish: Lift up your hands toward the sanctuary and bless the Lord. Blessed art Thou, O Lord our God, King of the universe, who bringest forth bread from the earth. Amen.

"Protestant: For this food, O God, we give Thee thanks. Bless it to our use and strengthen us to serve Thee and one another faithfully in the name of Jesus Christ, our Savior. Amen."

On the other side of the card which is folded, is the maxim of the Galion Trouble Clinic, entitled "Gathering Sticks." It reads: "A community service of doing little things with the purpose of making big differences in people's lives. The task of gathering sticks is necessary before the fire of hope and accomplishment can be kindled."

The Galion Trouble Clinc was formally organized in March, 1953. It is believed to be a unique group here and perhaps in the state. In realizing its purpose "to ease the worries of the heart, and help with family problems, rather than just give financial aid," the clinic has extended a "helping hand" in a Christian manner. Ministers, leading industrialists, attorneys, physicians, merchants, and others have recognized the work of the clinic, and have contributed funds toward it.

When first organized, the clinic specialized in finding part-time employment for people. This made it possible for many housewives who had experience in typing, secretarial work, and the like, to be given work to do in their homes. The clinic also found help, many times, for the employer.

More often, however, the clinic has come to the rescue of many families. Financial and health problems have been partially solved through help from the clinic.

Officers of the Trouble Clinic are: president, Miss Margaret Loris; vice president, Miss Edna Smith; secretary, Mrs. Joseph Redden; treasurer, Mrs. David Marshall. These officers, with the exception of the treasurer, comprise the board of directors with C. Findley Boyd and Walter Goshorn. The board discusses its problems at a luncheon-meeting every Thursday, with representatives of the professions and business often attending.

Industrial School Escapee at Large

LANCASTER, Ohio (AP)—An Akron boy, one of three who escaped from Boys' Industrial School yesterday, was still at large today, but the others were back in custody.

Don Ferdinand, 16, was sought in central and western Ohio. Terry Schwinnen, 17, Van Wert, and Roy Arnold, 17, Elyria, were found 11 hours after the early morning escape hiding in a gas station six miles from the school.

Officials said the trio escaped after hitting Loring van Fossen, 52, school power plant operator, on the head with wrenches. Van Fossen was reported in fairly good condition at a hospital.

Ferdinand was sentenced for carrying a concealed weapon; Schwinnen for illegal operation of a motor vehicle and Arnold for auto theft.

Third of the new Methodist ministers here to be the speaker for the Marion union vesper services will be heard Sunday night at Central Christian Church. Rev. Fletcher E. Shoup is pastor of the Prospect Street Methodist Church. He came to this community in June from Middletown where he was pastor of Calvary Methodist Church, and was active in both denominational and interdenominational work.

Teamed with him for the second time during the summer series will be Rev. Floyd E. Kline of Forest Lawn Presbyterian Church, as devotional leader. They served in reverse capacities at a vesper service in July, Rev. Kline being the speaker at that time.

"The Upward Call" will be the sermon theme. Music will be by the Men's Ensemble of Prospect Street Church, and the special number will be "Only a Touch of Thy Hand, Dear Lord." Mrs. Robert Rice will be the organist. Ushers will be from the Prospect Street Church.

Services of the Maranatha Bible Church Sunday will be at the church at 10:45 a.m., then at the tent in Garfield Park at 2:30 p.m. and 7:45, with Rev. Charles Gray of Dennison, O., as speaker. These will be his final services here. The continuing evangelistic effort will be conducted the next two weeks in charge of Rev. Mark L. Mitchell of Youngstown, closing Sept. 7 with an all-day Bible conference.

At the afternoon tent service Sunday the message will be on "Will Man Destroy Himself" and in the evening, "Missing the Will of God."

For the Bible Fellowship radio broadcast Sunday at 9:30 a.m. over Station WHKC, Colmbus, directed by the Maranatha Church pastor, Rev. Earl L. Holliday, musicians will be Miss Barbara Newsome, Vern Griffith, and Miss Patty Holliday of Marion, and Mrs. Gray. Rev. Gray will take part also.

I Heard The Voice Of Jesus Say

A noted clergyman delights in doodling

Scotland's foremost hymn writer, the Rev. Horatius Bonar, D.D., was forever doodling on the margins of newspapers, backs of envelopes and in the note pads he carried in his pocket to jot down lines of hymns as they came to him on his walks, and his travels in "railway carriages." But those who saw the Rev. Bonar's note pads say they were filled as much with incomplete sketches of faces and with doodling as they were with original lines of poetry.

In addition to his love for doodling, Dr. Bonar loved to sing the old hymns of Watts, Wesley, Cowper and Newton. But his congregation at the Free Church of Scotland, in the town of Kelso, wouldn't sing them. And at the big Chalmers Memorial Church, in his native Edinburgh to which he removed in 1866, Bonar's efforts to depart from the ancient custom of Psalm singing met with such opposition that two church officers got up and walked out.

But the children weren't disturbed by the complexities of church history and time-honored customs. They cared little that, as the Established Church, the Presbyterian Church in Scotland, had been controlled by the government and that use of any song book but the Psalter was forbidden. Nor were the children concerned with theological problems that had confronted Dr. Thomas Chalmers in the establishment of the Free Church.

To Horatius Bonar the winning of souls was more important than adherence to church laws. A visitor to his church once wrote, "His voice was low, quiet and impressive. His prayer was as simple as a child's. Once he paused and addressed the Sunday School children who sat by themselves on one side of the pulpit. He is just like his hymns . . . not great, but tender, sweet and tranquil."

Before preaching every Sunday, Dr. Bonar always went to the Sunday School classes and sang hymns with the children. And he gave the children printed leaflets of his own original verses and they sang them to familiar tunes.

As editor of "The Quarterly Journal Of Prophecy," Dr. Bonar published an original hymn in each issue for 25 years. Critics said they would hardly pass even as "gospel songs," but Bonar published them anyway.

Nine years after Dr. Bonar died in 1889, the United Presbyterian Church of Scotland published a hymn book of its own. In addition to Dr. Bonar's favorites, the editors included a liberal selection of his own original hymns. Of the 600 he wrote, at least 100 are still in use by various denominations.

I heard the voice of Jesus say,
"Come unto Me and rest;
Lay down, thou weary one, lay down
Thy head upon my breast."
I came to Jesus as I was,
Weary, and worn, and sad;
I found in Him a resting-place,
And He has made me glad.

I heard the voice of Jesus say,
"Behold, I freely give
The living water; thirsty one,
Stoop down and drink, and live."
I came to Jesus, and I drank
Of that life-giving stream;
My thirst was quenched, my soul revived,
And now I live in Him.

I heard the voice of Jesus say,
"I am this dark world's light,
Look unto me, thy morn shall rise,
And all the day be bright."
I looked to Jesus, and I found
In Him my star, my sun;
And in that light of life I'll walk
Till traveling days are done.

I heard the voice of Jesus say,
"My father's house above
Has many mansions; I've a place
Prepared for you in love."
I trust in Jesus;—in that house,
According to His word,
Redeemed by grace, my soul shall live
Forever with the Lord.

Rev. Sutherland To Give Final SermonSunday

New Minister at Greenwood Church To Arrive Tuesday

Rev. Roy L. Sutherland, pastor of Greenwood EUB Church in Marion the last 11 years, and Mrs. Sutherland will leave here Tuesday, moving to Fostoria where the former was appointed pastor at the recent annual conference of the Evangelical United Brethren Church at St. Marys, O. His successor at Greenwood Church will be Rev. Lynn Harris from Hoytville.

In his thirty-third year of the ministry, Rev. Sutherland has been for a time district leader in the Marion District of his denomination. He came to Marion from Warren, O. The youngest of three sons also in the ministry, Rev. John Paul Sutherland, was graduated from Harding High School here and married a Marion girl, the former Miss Lavina Strine. He is pastor of the Brownhelm EUB Charge near Elyria.

Other sons of Rev. Sutherland in the ministry are Rev. Robert Sutherland, pastor of Grace EUB Church in Akron, and Rev. James Sutherland, pastor of a congregation at Fort Wayne, Ind. A son-in-law, Rev. Durlan Dumm, is pastor at Hope EUB Church in Akron. Other children are Dr. Eugene Sutherland of Fond du Lac, Wis., and Dr. Roy Sutherland of Wilmore, Ky., both optometrists, and Mrs. Evelyn Hughes of Columbus.

Rev. and Mrs. Harris are scheduled to move to Marion Tuesday. The pastor, who served a Missionary church in Cleveland before he went to Hoytville, was ordained in 1946 and became a member of the United Brethren conference in 1949. A son is also a minister, a daughter is a Bible School student, and there is a small daughter at home.

Have You Considered?

A Sermonette

By REV. ASHLEY G. BOOTH
Pastor of Central Christian Church

"Consider . . ." Matthew 6:28

More than any other person who ever lived Jesus had the "know how" of man's inner life. The man-made distinctions of society were no barriers for Him, for He knew that a man's status did not alter a person's need for God. Whether an individual was a child or a youth, a man or woman, He seemed to have easy entrance into the inner chamber of his thoughts and hopes. He used His endowment of making people into what they were capable of becoming: Peter from a blustering man with an inferiority complex to one who refused to be martyred in the same manner as his Lord and was crucified head downward; Zaccheus, a glutton for success and material opportunity, who learned the meaning of investment in higher causes. So Jesus saw the strain of gold in their characters. As Dr. Thomas Arnold once observed of another: "He saw swans where others only saw geese."

Because He was especially sensitive to what men needed most Christ was peculiarly aware of the importance of adding to the resources of His select group of disciples. Among the most important of these occasions when He taught them is the Sermon on the Mount. Here is an adequate summary of the Christian life. He gives them instruction about the procedures of the Kingdom. He outlined the rules for contented living in the beatitudes. He talked about those who were the true adulterers, those who wallowed in evil thoughts. And He spoke about the matter of truly trusting God. Are not men more important than the birds or the flowers ? And then He made a proposal. "Consider the Lillies."

JESUS CALLED HIS disciples to go on a spiritual adventure with Him. "Consider." As the later Christian writer of Hebrews pleaded: "Let us consider how to stir up one another to love and good works." The principle of reflection seems to have had its beginning in the Sermon on the Mount. But this was by no means the last time Jesus asked His disciples to meditate upon their spiritual station in life. Each time He asked a question of His hearers, each casual conversation where men saw the difference between good and evil, every occasion when men had to choose whether they would or would not become His followers—Jesus asked His hearers to consider.

When one states his belief in Jesus Christ he is accepting God's offer of salvation, both for the present and the future. In the words of the Scripture, this act becomes a covenant. It is a statement of intention that God through Christ will control one's life. The acceptance of the Lordship of Christ is a turning over to Him of one's past and present and future, one's mode of living and manner of believing, one's resentments and immoral practices and lazy prejudices. To begin the pretense of the Christian life and then to renege because one is unwilling to accept the full challenge is to have a biography written as was written for Demas. In II Timothy 4:10 we read: "For Demas, in love with this present world, has deserted me."

IF CONSTANT cultivation is a law of nature for flowers, so continuous exposure to the guidance of the spirit is the equivalent law in the Christian life. In a certain African village where the huts are packed together, privacy is almost impossible. It is a custom, therefore, when a convert wishes to pray, to return to the forest. If one grows a little careless and neglects his place of prayer, his friends confront him with a single question: "Is the grass growing green on your path?" The one they give to this question is also the reply as to whether or not the person has considered carefully the meaning of His covenant with God. The same burning issue confronts us as Christians today.

There is about one acre of government-owned forest land for each citizen in continental United States.

Michigan Shrine Erected to Doctor

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich (UP) — A $40,000 restoration project has been started here to commeolda -ayle dl5m tare tinraoe memorate a 151-year-old date in U. S. medical history.

State medical leaders and political figures joined in ceremonies to lay the cornerstone of a shrine whose analytical studies on human digestive processes in 1822 marked a medical milestone.

The project, financed by contibutions from state physicians and civic organizations, is expected to be completed next year and turned over to the Mackinac Island state park commission.

Dr. Beaumont's studies were made possible when Alexis St. Martin, a young trapper, was wounded accidentally by a shotgun blast. The victim continued to live but the wound left a gaping "window" in St. Martin's stomach through which Dr. Beaumont observed digestive processes. His findings provided medical men with concepts of reaction of the human stomach to various types of food, liquor, and even emotions.

The island trading post containing Dr. Beaumont's office as it appeared in 1822, will be restored.

Peripatus, a worm-like animal which is one of the oldest types of creature on earth, is found in scattered locations in Asia, Africa, Australia and Central and South America.

Check for Haircut Has Judge Convinced

AKRON (UP) — It could be that a common dislike for the current $1.50 price of haircuts here, saved bookkeeper John Kocher, 25, from a jail sentence.

The young Akronite pleaded guilty to a charge of larceny and embezzlement here. Kocher explained to Judge Frank H. Harvey that in order to keep up with the expensive tastes of his former girl friend he dipped into petty cash funds and wrote bogus checks for himself.

But what intrigued Judge Harvey was a check for $1.50. When told that it was written for a haircut, the Judge replied sympathetically, "I suppose you really ought to write checks for haircuts, the price they are."

Judge Harvey placed the man on probation on condition he find work and make plans to pay off his debts, totaling $3,000.

NEIGHBORLY HELP

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UP) — J. F. Brown was summoned to appear before a justice of the peace on the charge of "shooting and killing an alligator." Brown's neighbors protested, claiming the saurian had been a threat to their children and they approved the shooting. Prosecution was halted.
